The Virtual Talk: 'Places: The Wednesday Group'

Sarah Britten-Jones, Elizabeth Emery, Dallas Kavanagh , Terese Longva, Minako Shirakura, Angela Waseskuk

Thursday, Feb. 11, 7 p.m.
Cohen Gallery, 55 Main St.
Cost to Attend Event: Free

Sponsored by Committee or Division: SOAD, Career Development Center

Join 4 members of the Wednesday Group in the Cohen Gallery from their various places around the world to talk about careers and the exhibition in the Gallery. The video conference is a great opportunity for current students to engage with those that received degrees from Alfred and talk about life after Alfred.

The Wednesday Group is a global collective that formed over many cups of tea and conversations regarding concept and materiality. The Wednesday Group was founded in 2006 while the group was studying art at Alfred University. It was by finding commonalities through diverse life experiences where the benefits of creating an artists' collective became apparent.

Although The Wednesday Group physically dispersed as members graduated and moved away, its members are still connected, a few continue to collaborate, but all are still committed to the vision. The Wednesday Groupists are artists educators, social engagers; believing in the artist's responsibility as a global citizen to add to the cultural conversation through the work that they make. Art is a powerful communicator.
