COMMENCEMENT TIME

Fifty-one receive diplomas at Alfred-Almond

By DAVID L. SNYDER

Editor, Publisher and Janitor

ALMOND--Twenty-one members of the Alfred-Almond Central School graduating Class of 2015 received a combined $64,000 in scholarships from the Alfred Almond Alumni Association during Saturday afternoon's commencement exercises in the high school gymnasium.

Valedictorian Matthew Johnson and Salutatorian Natasha Jackson honored the memory of classmate Jason Latham, who died in February 2013 after a battle with cancer.

Graduating senior Miguel Quintana's birthday was also recognized Saturday, just as it has been each day throughout the final quarter of the school year. Jackson explained the senior joke that in the halls, at athletic events and other occasions, friends always wished Miguel a "Happy Birthday" even though his real birthday is July 22.

Regardless of his real birthday, he received a nice gift on Saturday. Quintana was recipient of a Jean Hanks Palmiter/

Dale Lorow Alumni Scholarship of $3000.

Also receiving $3000 Palmiter/Lorow scholarships, presented by A-A Alumni Association President Bill Pulos, assisted by Lisa Porter of the AAAA executive board, were Catherine Bialecki, Parker Bryant-Carty, Anna Burdick, Elianna Chroniger, Ciara Cuesta, David Ermer, Kiersten Foster, Natasha Jackson, Jaesuk Lee, Rachel McMahon, Courtney Peters, Victoria Robshaw, Emma Tyrell, Brandon VanTreese and Samantha Woughter.

Others receiving Alumni Association scholarships were Matthew Johnson and Morgan Emo, Susan H. Fowler Awards of $2500 each; Sidney McDonough, the Rachel Amato Baldo/Thomas Murphy Health Care Scholarship of $3000; Kyra Kress, the Gregory Norton Leadership Scholarship of $3000; and Curtis Decker, the Juanita Whitaker Pulos Fine Arts Scholarship of $5000, which was presented by Mrs. Pulos' sons, Bill and Bob Pulos.

Other awards presented and their recipients on Saturday included:

- Patrick Fasano Memorial Sportsman-ship Award, Kyra Kress.
- Paul M. Sharrett Memorial Award, Tonia Tinker.
- J. Michael Brace Memorial Scholarship, Nicholas Muhleisen.
- Andrew Marlatt Memorial Scholarships ($500 each), Rachel McMahon and Nick Muhleisen.
- Almond Grange Award, Kiersten Marie Foster.
- Michael C. Fucci Memorial Scholarship, Sydney McDonough.
- Maple City Savings and Loan Award, Maria House.
- ServU Federal Credit Union Award, Emma Tyrell.
- Alfred Lions Club Award, Ian Clarke and Rachel McMahon.

The Alfred-Almond Senior High Symphonic Band, directed by Todd Bialecki, opened with the traditional processional of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance."

The Star Spangled Banner was sung by Elianna Chroniger, who then led in the singing of the Alma Mater.

School Superintendent Richard Calkins welcomed family and friends to the commencement ceremony, followed by Jackson's Salutatory.

The Senior High Symphonic Band then played Erik Morale's "The Impossible Machine."

Following Johnson's Valedictory and the presentation of awards, Secondary Principal Mrs. Susan Bain-Lucey presented the graduates, who received their diplomas from A-A School Board President Earl Pierce.

The band followed with the recessional, "Ode to Joy" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

Class of 2015 officers were President Jaesuk Lee, Vice-President Kyra Kress, Secretary Morgan Emo and Treasurer Rachel McMahon. Class advisors are Mrs. Kristi Gemmell and Mrs. Tanya Lehman.

Photos of all of the graduating seniors appear on Pages 6-8 of this newspaper.

Alfred State breaks ground on manufacturing center

WELLSVILLE—Alfred State broke ground on its new Advanced Manufacturing Center on the School of Applied Technology campus in Wellsville Wednesday afternoon, June 24.

The center will be used to educate welding technology and machine tool technology students in state-of-the-art sustainable practices in advanced manufacturing through efficient processes. Other uses for the facility include prototyping and assisting manufacturers in the development of new products and systems. Machine tool technology, welding, and drafting/CAD are the three areas of study within the Computerized Design and Manufacturing Department.

Attending the groundbreaking were representatives of elected officials, faculty and staff, students, and local government and community leaders. Alfred State President Dr. Skip Sullivan, the first speaker of the event, said the facility will keep the Wellsville campus, and the college in general, at the cutting edge of technology, with a focus on sustainability.

"Great things are ahead for Alfred State and many things have been changing on this campus lately," he said, "but let me assure you, without reservation, that as far as Alfred State is concerned, the best is yet to come."

The building will house freshman and senior welding students and senior machine tool technology students, and includes classrooms, a computer lab, a welding fabrication shop, material handling and preparation space, a CNC machine shop, and metrology and inspection space. It is expected to be in use by the fall 2016 semester, Sullivan said.

Speaking on behalf of elected officials were Julie Schmidt, district coordinator for State Sen. Cathy Young, R-Olean, and Lori Cornell, Gov. Andrew Cuomo's regional representative for Southwestern New York.

"Today's groundbreaking serves as a reminder of how important manufacturing is, not only to our immediate area, but to New York State as a whole," Schmidt said on Young's behalf. "Together, we will continue to develop new and innovative technology and manufacturing systems that will help stimulate and grow our economy and pave the way for our future generations."

Reading aloud the governor's message, Cornell said, "This welcome addition to your dynamic campus will continue to inspire future generations to realize their unique potential and to attain their lifelong goals."

The $5 million, 16,500-square-foot center is part of the $15 million "Retooling the Southern Tier" SUNY 2020 project. Empire State Development also awarded Alfred State a $500,000 grant for equipment for the center in 2013 through the Western New York Regional Economic Development Council (WNYREDC) process.

Wednesday's groundbreaking ceremony comes four months after the Educational Foundation

MY TURN

By ALAN LITTELL
Alfred Sun Contributor

A Death in the Family

In the early morning of February 28 of this year, my wife, Caroline Littell, confirmed a decision she had made the day before. She would discontinue medical treatment, other than palliative care, for the cancerous growth of white blood cells—acute leukemia—that was exploding in her bone marrow. What she had decided in effect was to accept her death. It was a death that would arrive, on schedule, within a matter of weeks.

I sat by her bedside in a hospital in Pasadena, California. She lay tethered to an intravenous drip of saline solution. She was breathing heavily. She coughed continuously. The hospital, which should have been a well of quiet, was a noisy place. Around us we could hear the sound of beeps, bells and chimes. There were peals of laughter, the undertone of voices, the hum of ventilation conduits.

The wall behind her bed was festooned with dials, gauges, plastic tubing, plugs, wires.

It was on this day that she had declined, for a second time, to continue the intervention of chemotherapy. The administration of the poison designed to kill the cancer in her blood had been debilitating. She was not young. Continued treatment, she knew, was useless. Her doctor, who had initially refused to accept defeat, as if his patient's dying was a personal affront, also knew that any further attempt to contain the disease now made no sense.

"I am too tired," my wife said to me. "I cannot do this." Her hair, a near white closer to ivory, was spread out across the pillow.

Our two sons would arrive in a few minutes for their daily vigil. One lived a few miles away, in a Pasadena suburb. The other had flown in from his distant home, in Ithaca, New York.

And she said, "It's wonderful having our sons here. But there's no joy in this." She gripped my hand. "Do you understand?"

"Yes," I said. "I understand."

And she said, "I've fought this long enough. I don't want to go on. I'm so, so tired."

She closed her eyes. The skin of her face had pulled back from the cheekbones. The skin was smooth, like a child's.

"You know," I said, "we've had some good times."

"Oh, yes! Many, many, many...." And she drifted off to sleep.

Her nurses had names like Ariana, Marlana, Hannah, Briana. They were young. They held themselves aloof in their busy-work and bustle about the room, adjusting a tube here, an oxygen feed there, cranking the bed higher or lower. They seemed to distance themselves from the woman in the bed, from the dying around them.

Soon Caroline awoke. She turned to me and said, "I'm not me anymore. But I don't want to go home. For what? I shouldn't have to fight a diminished existence. Do you agree?"

And so I said, "I agree."

"I'm so glad you agree," she said. "I could not bear it if you did not agree with me."

Occasionally, she groaned. Her breathing was hoarse, rasping, labored. In waking moments, her speech was slurred. Only once did she lose her outward composure. "I'm frightened," she said. I said nothing. I could not speak. I could not respond.

She went on: "Frightened...." She frowned; she coughed from deep in her lungs. "Dying.... Choking...." And then she slept.

I held her hand as she slept. A gulf had opened between us. There was no bridging it. Her isolation, her alone-ness, was impenetrable. She knew this. I knew this. As much as I may have wished to, I could not do her dying for her. I was an outsider. I could not enter her space. She did not complain, she did not whine. As best she could, she got on with it. I stared out of the window. Her room gave high above the city of Pasadena, which climbed into hills whose folds and gullies were picked out in a queer yellow light. It was not yet noon.

Watching my wife slowly die, I began, finally, in old age, to learn something about living. I had fled from death. I now faced death. I could no longer avert my gaze.

Let me tell you about Caroline. It is important that I speak of her. I do not exploit her dying and death. I am not making literature. Literature means nothing to me. Literature is vanity. I must bear witness.

One of her brothers wrote this to me: "We loved her as you did. She was a sweet character, intelligent and fun." She was all of these. Yet she was more than the sum of her parts. She was a good person. She was a person of vast moral courage. It was a courage that transcended the usual meaning of the word.

We had met 55 years ago, in Paris, where, for whatever reason, both of us had found ourselves. Her name then was Caroline Jane Penelope Byass. She was English. She had wandered in from London, I from Boston. Her beauty was startling: a finely modeled face, high cheekbones, small nose, gray-green eyes. We lived in a small hotel in the quarter of artists and writers that was called Montparnasse.

We married in New York City, and later came to Alfred. We took up jobs at Alfred University, and in Alfred we built our home and raised our children.

She became ill three years ago. Her local doctor had found markers in her blood that troubled him. He sent her up the line to the specialists who deal with this sort of thing. It was a bone-marrow disorder that for a time would be contained, manageable. This year, perhaps inevitably, the malady progressed. No longer contained, no longer manageable, it proved deadly.

It was said of a famous author that he faced death with "remarkable equanimity and impersonal curiosity." The first half of the phrase was also true of Caroline, though equanimity, I think, is too strong a word. Equanimity suggests willingness. There was acceptance, but not willingness.

As for the second part, she had boundless curiosity about people and places—the exoticism of foreign countries and landscapes, the musicality of foreign tongues. All these excited her imagination. But she had little curiosity about death. I'm not sure death itself held any significance or interest for her. She never spoke of what may or may not lie beyond.

If she did think about it, what she saw may have been darkness. At the end of her life, she longed for darkness—oblivion. I am quite certain of that. In her hospital bed, and later in the hospice we had set up for her at our winter getaway—the Pasadena apartment we rented when snow began to fly 3,000 miles away in Western New York—she seemed lost in a fog of indifference, or of bleak sadness, or of grief.

From time to time, she would become agitated. A drop of morphine under the tongue would ease her. She said very little. She ate nothing. I gripped her hand. I called out to her:

"Who are you? Tell me who you are."

There was no response.

"Your name! Caroline. Your name! Do you remember your name?"

She stared at me. She stared through me. Eyes gleaming: watery with illness. She did not speak.

"Who am I?" I said. "My name! Tell me my name."

Slowly, slowly, drawn out one letter at a time, with enormous effort, with whatever breath she could muster, with whatever strength that was left to her, she whispered my name.

She died an hour before midnight on March 18. She was 75.

Scene About Alfred

By SHERRY VOLK
Alfred Sun Columnist

New England is a varied and delightful area to visit. After a family week on the shore of Maine, we moved our operations to Gorham, in the White Mountains of New Hampshire, where we had enjoyed camping when we were first married. On the one day that dawned bright and clear, we decided we shouldn't hike, as we couldn't safely leave our bird (really, she travels with us) in the car in bright sun, and we couldn't leave her in the motel, as the checkout time was earlier than we could be back.

We decided to drive up the Auto Road on Mount Washington, and learned that the conditions we would find at the top included winds of 60 MPH and temperatures barely above the 30's. We certainly couldn't hike around up there, but we could enjoy vast views of over 100 miles, even as far as a hazy Atlantic Ocean on the horizon. As we wrestled our car doors open to climb in and begin our descent, this frill of clouds above the ranks of mountains caught my eye.

Applesauce cake by Helen Thomas

[Editor's Note: Like most of the recipes she shared with our readers over the past couple of decades, Ellen Shultz's Sunny Side Up columns are worth repeating. ]

Helen Thomas graduated from Alfred University in 1925 and went to work teaching French and Latin at Alfred High School when it was in the old South Hall building. When the area schools consolidated she moved into the new Alfred-Almond Central School building and continued to teach French. In all she spent over forty years as a teacher and was known as a great disciplinarian. The 1962 yearbook was dedicated to her and contained this quote, "...the quality which most endears her to her many pupils is the ability to laugh at herself and with her students."

In a collection of recipes listed as Recipes of the Early 1900's, this cake shows up several times, once attributed to her.

Applesauce Cake

1/2 c. shortening      2 c. flour
1 c. sugar      2 tsp. soda
1 1/4 c. unsweetened applesauce      1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. vanilla      1/2 tsp. cloves
1/2 c. each raisins and nuts      1/2 tsp. nutmeg

Combine and bake in 350 degree oven about 45 minutes.

One of the frostings listed for this cake was a recipe from Doris Rice.

Brown Sugar Icing

1 c. brown sugar      1/4 c. butter      1/4 c. milk

Cook 3 minutes over low fire. Let cool and add 2 c. sifted confectioners sugar.

Alfred State breaks ground

of Alfred, Inc. signed a contract that leases land on the School of Applied Technology campus designated for the center to the State University of New York (SUNY) for 30 years. This move was required to allow the SUNY 2020 funds to be used to construct the building, according to Dr. Craig Clark, executive director and dean of the School of Applied Technology. The college currently rents the Wellsville campus from the Educational Foundation and the center is the first state-funded building on that campus since it opened in 1966.
Since the 1990s, Dresser-Rand in Wellsville has provided space for senior welding and senior machine tool programs. While the company has been a great host, the college's goal has always been to move these programs onto the Wellsville campus, and the SUNY 2020 grant made that possible, according to Clark.
The fourth speaker at the ceremony was Steven D. Fernaays, architect and senior associate for SWBR Architects, whose team designed an efficient building envelope that will minimize energy usage.

"Overall, we feel, and we hope you do also, that this building will greatly enhance the student experience," he said. "It will assist the faculty in preparing the students for the real world and will be something for all to be proud of for many years to come, as it will help students successfully transition from academia to industry."
The final speaker was Fred Thompson, vice president of LeChase Construction, the general contractor of the project. He mentioned that LeChase has worked on dozens of projects on both Alfred State campuses for decades and has employed more than 60 of the college's graduates over a six-decade span, including himself and Bill Goodrich, the company's president and CEO.
"I would like to thank the State University Construction Fund and Alfred State for once again entrusting LeChase Construction with one of your esteemed projects," he said. "I look forward to standing here with all of you in the near future upon its successful completion."

Editor,
I meant to write this note two weeks ago, but there is still time.
I would urge all who have not seen the wonderful photography exhibition at Herrick Library to do so. Caroline Littell and her husband traveled the world, he as a travel writer and she as a photographer. Her work is dramatic, beautifully printed, and captures the essence of the many exotic places they visited.
The exhibit is up until July 15, and is well worth a visit..

Writer suggests all join magic of marvelous MostArts Festival

Letter to the Editor:
I've been known to take the art of the exaggerated tall tale to exciting levels, but never will I be able to explain just how marvelous the Most Arts Festival will be.
I went last year expecting something good and I experienced something great.
On the cover of the festival brochure it states "The Magic Returns" and they aren't kidding. This festival is class, style, and talent at the highest degree. How they can accomplish music and art at such a high level for eight days is a tribute to genius, determination, and hard work.
This is happening soon, right in our own backyard at Alfred University, and I suggest you join the magic and take in many of the special events. Some events are free, and others charge. The ones that charge present a prominent international musical artist, with the MostArts Festival Orchestra in the beautiful Miller Theatre.

We are lucky to have this event in our area, and I'm just relating some really good news.

FROM THE DESK OF DAVID PULLEN

By DAVID PULLEN
Allegany County Legislator

SUMMER SOLSTICE
The second monthly session of the Allegany County Board of Legislators was held on June 22nd, 2015, just one day after the summer solstice. Summertime in Allegany County is beautiful. The weather is usually wonderful, and the countryside is green and lush. In addition, the daylight lasts longer, so we get to enjoy more time outside. Each season has its unique advantages and benefits, but summertime in Allegany County is particularly enjoyable.
Our meeting began with the Pledge of Allegiance. Former Navy 3rd Class Petty Officer Kathleen Timpano led us in the Pledge. Her term of service extended from November 1963 through 1966. Her service had just begun when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. It was a particularly emotional time to be serving in the Navy.
Following the Pledge and Invocation Chairman Curt Crandall granted Privilege of the Floor to Allegany County Dairy Princess Ashley Lyman, of Cuba. She was joined by the Alternate Dairy Princess. They urged everyone to attend the Allegany County Fair and visit the dairy barn.
There were comparatively few resolutions to be considered by the Board of Legislators at this session. Resolution #151-15 appointed two members to the Citizens Advisory Council of the Office For the Aging. Carole Onoda of Almond was appointed to fill the remainder of the term of retired Chairman Wally Higgins. Mary Ann Trice of Wellsville was appointed to fill the remainder of a vacant term.
Resolution #152-15 approved a Grant Application by the Department of Social Services for $51,991 for a court-based referral and compliance monitoring program. It is designed to address under-employment and unemployment among non-custodial parents, and to promote payment of court ordered child support. Resolution #153-15 accepted and appropriated $35,118 in additional State Aid for Community Service accounts. Those funds will be used for alcohol and substance abuse programs.
Resolution #154-15 approved the sale of 2015

"Tax Sale Properties" to the successful bidders at the recent tax sale. The funds obtained through these sales helps reimburse the county for the funds it pays out each year to school districts, villages, towns and special districts for their unpaid taxes and assessments. Resolution #155-15 amended Resolution #235-14 to include summer youth employment and training counselor positions. The hourly rate of pay is $12.00. All resolutions were unanimously approved
The Board then approved the payment of the audited bills for the past two weeks. The total amount approved was $2,444,269.20. That included another $193,186 per week, for an additional $386,372, for the Medicaid Program. Our total Medicaid payment for the current year is $4,636,464. This represents county payments for a state mandated and state run program. Just think what we could do with that money here in Allegany County. Even better, think what you could do with that money if you never had to pay it in taxes. I believe that taxpayers know how to spend their money much better than Albany or Belmont.
This past week the press carried an article about some new grants that were granted to provide assistance to telephone companies. These funds will reportedly be used to upgrade equipment and facilities in rural areas, such as Allegany County. I strongly support all efforts that will improve telephone service to our residents and taxpayers. I strongly support all effort that will increase the amount of fiber-optic cable that is present in our county. There is no question that fiber-optic cable represents the best and fastest technology for telephones, Internet and other electronic communications. Unfortunately, fiber-optic cable is also very expensive, and has not been installed in most rural areas. Hopefully the money from the new grants will help reverse that situation. However, our needs are so great that I don't expect it to significantly reduce the need for the wireless Broadband system that the County is currently constructing. Work on that system is progressing well and appears to be on schedule.

AAUW honors essay winners, graduating seniors

HORNELL--The annual Alfred-Hornell AAUW awards dinner was held recently at The Main Place in Hornell. This event honors area fourth grade student winners of the essay contest "The Woman I Most Admire" and graduating high school girls who have achieved the highest grade average in math and science.

Mary Jane Lloyd, branch secretary and event chair, opened the dinner by welcoming branch members, honorees, parents, families, and community members. For the fifth year, a $100 scholarship was awarded to six graduating senior girls. In addition to being honored at dinner, they each received an engraved medallion, a certificate, a rose, and had their names engraved on their high school Awards Plaque which is prominently displayed in their respective schools.

Following the welcome, Lloyd introduced branch President Patricia Soper-Oakes who explained the mission of the American Association of University Women: To advance equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy and research. Soper-Oakes explained that AAUW was founded in 1881 and is the oldest feminist organization in the country. The Alfred-Hornell Branch, founded in 1938, celebrates 77 years of branch organization. The local AAUW chapter is proud of its history and the work done to promote the AAUW mission.

Before the honored guests were introduced, President Soper-Oakes introduced and welcomed our newest member, Mary Ann Chura, a retired teacher from the Canisteo-Greenwood Central School. Mary Ann joined AAUW under the Shape the Future Program. We encourage anyone interested in joining to use this program!

Essay Contest judges Penelope Whitford, Patricia LaPiana, and Christine Thomas were thanked for their work judging essays for the essay contest.

Essay Contest committee member Penelope Whitford introduced each winner. They enthusiastically read their essays "The Woman I Most Admire." Each winner and winner honorees were dinner guests of AAUW. The students received an engraved medallion, a rose, and a special certificate. The students and the honorees were: Kylie Williamson from Canisteo-Greenwood, who honored her mother, Kristie Williamson; Hornell Intermediate School's McKenna Donlon, honored her teacher and coach, Mrs. Larkin, and Autumn La France, from Arkport Central School, whose essay honoring Underground Railroad abolitionist Harriet Tubman was read by Penny Whitford. Autumn arrived later than planned due to a concert she was involved in at Arkport School. Well-deserved congratulations were expressed to our three essay winners and their honorees.

Branch co-secretary Mary Jane Lloyd recognized President Soper-Oakes as being the visionary to begin this awards dinner. Lloyd addressed the senior award winners quoting from Malala Yousafzai: "Terrorists' greatest fear is a girl with a book." She hoped that our girls will continue to be that "Girl with a book."

The chapter was honored to have Kim Pollard, AAUW regional field representative, in attendance this year. She stated that education is the core of AAUW and was very pleased to attend this awards banquet which celebrates AAUW's commitment to STEM. She spoke to the audience of senior girls regarding the almost 900 college affiliates of AAUW and the value of joining one of them on their respective campus.

President Soper-Oakes introduced each of the six area high school seniors who were honored in recognition of their achievement in math and science. This annual event is the highlight of the AAUW program year and supports the mission of "Breaking through barriers for women and girls" since these disciplines, Science, Technology, Engineering and Math, (STEM) are still mainly underrepresented by women. This year's recipients certainly reflect that mission through their strong academics and outstanding participation in various school and community activities.

Members were delighted to honor the following recipients of our awards and scholarship for excellence in math and science: Alfred Almond Central School, Sydney McDonough, who will attend Daemen College working toward her DPT (Doctor of Physical Therapy); Andover Central School, Amber Niedermaier who will attend Jamestown Community College to study nursing and then to Daemen College to become a family nurse practitioner; Arkport

Central School, Nichole Gibson who will attend SUNY Plattsburg, majoring in Biochemistry; Canisteo-Greenwood, Amber Edwards, who will attend Corning Community College and will study athletic training; Hornell High School, Grace Weyand who will attend the University of Rochester studying Biomedical Engineering; Jasper-Troupsburg, Haley Davis, who will attend the University of Buffalo studying Architecture.

Congratulations and best wishes to all of these graduating girls!

A 50/50 drawing was held and winner, Amber Niedermaier, senior award winner from Andover Central School, won. She was quite surprised and delighted!

Another drawing for a free banquet dinner was held among branch members who paid their dues that night. The winner was member and Program Vice President, Kim Gayhart. Congratulations, Kim!

Thanks were offered to John Carbone for a delicious buffet, Dani Wassink, co-secretary for all of her contributions communicating news of the branch, and Kim Gayhart, Vice President for Program, for managing terrific programs all year!!

While the Awards Dinner is a joyous annual event at which we honor academic excellence and scholarship among our young people, members have ultimately enjoyed a stellar AAUW program throughout the year. These included a program by NYS-AAUW Program Chair, Jane Russell, who spoke about the history and her family's involvement in the women's suffrage movement. She also stressed the advantages she and her sisters had being raised in a family which imposed no personal or professional limits, and how it led to her being elected as Pulteney Supervisor. Sister Susan of Steuben Rural Ministries (now Catholic Charities) met with us in October and told of her multiple year connection to this ministry. She explained that the need for supplementing resources remains great in our area, and donations were provided by our members. Some members of our branch attended District 2 Conference in the AAUW House in Rochester NY where area educators addressed Common Core issues.

After a wonderful meal in November at Culinary Arts Dining Room in Wellsville, Alfred State College English professors Annie Constantine and Janice Stafford shared with members a TED Talk by Adiche on "The Danger of a Single Story." This explained how perceptions are limited by what one reads and is told. December was celebrated by hosting the Hornell High School Show Choir to kick off a terrific holiday season. In February members met at the lovely home of member Ada White to discuss the book "Wild" by Cheryl Strayed, which is about a woman attempting to resolve her many problems by hiking The Pacific Crest Trail. For March's Women's History Month Vicki Eaklor from Alfred University presented a lively, informative program on "Women in Jazz" which highlighted women's opportunities and limitations both pre- and post-World War II. In April the branch enjoyed a fine performance of "Brothers Grimm Spectacular" at dinner theatre at the Alfred State Lake Lodge. Some members attended and enjoyed "Telling Tales Out of School," put on in May by Bath's AAUW branch.

The grand finale for the year was our annual Awards dinner at the Main Place.

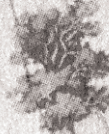

The Alfred-Hornell branch welcomes new members. Please contact President Patricia Soper-Oakes at 607 382-2949 or Anne Acton, membership chair, 607 587 9119, with any questions.

AU MOST ARTS FESTIVAL

YUVAL ZALIOUK

ANGELIN CHANG

WAYNE HIGBY

MostArts Festival Grand Finale will be a real treat

By LISA LANTZ

MostArts Festival Director

ALFRED—The Magic Returns with Wayne Higby's MostArts Festival "Raku Extravaganza."

As a prelude to Saturday evening's Grand Finale concert, all are invited to the "Hair Pin Turn" above Miller Theater on the AU campus for the annual "Raku Extravaganza" with renowned ceramic artist Wayne Higby, assisted by the Summer School MFA grads.

Select a plate or pot and set free your inner artistry to glaze it and then watch it transform through the raku firing process. The EisenHearth Pizza Truck will be there all day, serving their delicious wood fired pizzas. Bring the family to this magical event. (weather permitting)

MostArts Festival Grand Finale Gala Saturday, July 11 at 7:30 pm.

Experience the excitement and thrill as the winners of the "Young Pianist Competition" are announced following Saturday evening's extraordinary concert. Grammy award winning pianist, Angelin Chang takes the stage with the MostArts Festival Orchestra and Guest Conductor, Yuval Zaliouk in the Grand Finale Concert in Miller Theater.

You will hear a thrilling performance by internationally acclaimed pianist Angelin Chang, who is the first American female pianist awarded the GRAMMY® for Best Instrumental Soloist with Orchestra. She is recognized for her sense of poetry and technical brilliance. An active chamber musician, she performs regularly with the legendary violist Joseph de Pasquale, The de Pasquale String Quartet, and with members of the Philadelphia Orchestra and Cleveland Orchestra. Dr. Angelin Chang is Professor of Piano and Coordinator of Keyboard Studies at Cleveland State University, where she is also Professor of Law at the Cleveland- Marshall College of Law.

Angelin Chang will perform the Liszt Piano Concerto No. 1 with the Festival Orchestra. This work is a tour de force of powerful and exciting virtuosity blended with poetic beauty, and contains some of the most difficult music written for piano. The concerto has been nicknamed the "Triangle Concerto" as the Scherzo movement features the quaint accompaniment of a triangle along side brilliant piano solos.

Widely criticized when it was first performed, Franz Liszt defended his use of the triangle by explaining, "I employed for the effect of contrast. As regards the triangle, I do not deny that it may give offence, especially if struck too strong and not precisely....Few conductors are circumspect enough to bring out the rhythmic element in them, without the raw addition of a coarse noisiness..."

The MostArts Festival is thrilled to have a guest conductor who is "circumspect enough" and much more at the podium this week. Israeli-American conductor, Yuval Zaliouk began his career in London with the Royal Ballet Company, where he was the exclusive conductor for Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyev in Covent Garden and on European tours.

In 1975, Zaliouk revived Israel's Haifa Symphony Orchestra, and went on to become Music Director of the Toledo Symphony Orchestra. From 1995-2001, he was Music Director of the Raanana Symphonette in Israel, an orchestra comprised of Soviet Union ex-patriates.

Maestro Zaliouk has conducted extensively internationally including The Israel Philharmonic, The Bournemouth Symphony, The Royal Liverpool Philharmonic, The Royal Philharmonic, The Tokyo Symphony, The Berlin Symphony, The Stuttgart Radio Orchestra, Helsinki Philharmonic, The Oslo Philharmonic, Madrid National Symphony, Portuguese National Orchestra, and The Moscow Chamber Orchestra.

Not only an internationally renowned symphony conductor, Maestro Zaliouk is also a gourmet chef and founder of the "Almondina" cookie company in Maumee, Ohio. A delicious, crispy wafer with the delicate flavor of roasted almonds and the natural sweetness of plump raisins, they are sold in all 50 states and overseas. And now in Alfred, they will be available exclusively at "The Festival Shop" on Main Street, while the supply lasts.

You won't want to miss a single moment of this week's events. Tickets are available at the Festival Shop, online with a credit card or by calling 607-871-2828.

'Power of Goodness' highlights children's works

ALFRED--The Power of Goodness is a curated exhibition of children's artwork illustrating short stories of of nonviolence and reconciliation from Chechnya, Russia and around the world. These works capture the excitement of action, the joy of seeing from new perspectives and the encouragement of witnessing small acts that make big differences.

Curators Nadine Hoover and Dawn Bennett collaborated on this exquisite display of children's art forged from the heightened experiences of children surviving war and the remarkable skill of young people who pour hours into creating art when war shuts down schools.

An English-language short story book, a trilingual textbook with discussion questions, workshops on nonviolence and reconciliation and a training manual accompany this exhibition.

Nadine Hoover, Director of Conscience Studio and Coordinator of Friends Peace Teams in Asia West Pacific, identified an ecology of practices that create public cultures of peace that she offers through books, exhibitions and activities. Dawn Bennett, Owner of the Rogue Carrot and Freelance Curator, brings 15 years of curatorial experience in Chicago and Baltimore to producing exhibitions from paintings by monkeys to ceramics by Ruth Duckworth.

Artwork from five of the 23 stories in the exhibition are on display at the Powell Campus Center at AU. The exhibition will open at 1 p.m. on Monday, July 6 and run through August 5.

This exhibition presents original artwork by children ages 6-20 from Chechnya, Russia, Europe and North America illustrating stories of nonviolence, healing and reconciliation from the lives of real people. The works depict loving kindness in action that carry into the lives of both young and old and capture the excitement of action, the joy of seeing things from new perspectives and the encouragement of witnessing small actions make big differences.

A Quaker teacher, Janet Riley, taught English as a second language in a rural Russian village using a collection of short stories titled Lighting Candles in the Dark. These stories helped young Russian and Chechen survivors of war and violence gain inspiration and insight into how to act with compassion and courage. Teachers, counselors, students and writers collected similar stories from their own communities, then selected local, regional and global stories for the children

Glenn Zweygardt's 'Earthen Dancer' to be unveiled

ALFRED--As part of the MostArts Festival Weeklong Celebration of Arts and the Community, sculpture artist, Glenn Zweygardt, invites the public to attend the unveiling of "Earthen Dancer." The event will take place at the corner of West University and Main Street on Monday, July 6 at 4:30 pm.

Zweygardt explains that this particular sculpture, was created over a number of years, but finally fabricated this spring. The seminal form for the sculpture is the anthropomorphic root mass on top of the globe. He found it growing through a pile of metal that had had amassed outdoors. Glenn Burdick, who operates the plasma cutter, worked to cut all the spirals that terminate the arms of the roots. The addition of these elemental symbols gives the sculpture a frenetic energy. It is as if an earthen Shiva sprang from the ground and is now performing its dance of creation on a column of stone.

Standing nearly 9 feet and composed of Steel, Stainless Steel, Ductile Iron, Granite and Enameled Steel, Zweygardt's "Earthen Dancer" appears to be performing on top of a globe. And this makes it the perfect pairing to coincide with the MostArts Festival and its international array of artists and musicians working and performing on the Alfred University campus.

The artist told the MostArts Festival founder, "I wanted to join you and your creative associations through MostArts, because I believe the arts are a perfect avenue for developing, nurturing, expanding and sustaining community awareness. I am impressed by your professional presentation and your enthusiasm to expand MostArts musical venue through other art disciplines."

Glenn Zweygardt will offer a Q & A period regarding the Arts and Community building at the unveiling of "Earthen Dancer."

‘We As Human’ will ‘Rock the Tarmac’ at Wellsville Airport July 11

HOUGHTON--National touring rock group and GMA Dove Award Nominee “We As Human,” along with Grammy-nominated singer Lacey Sturm (formerly of Flyleaf), will headline year two of Rock the Tarmac, a free rock music festival held on Saturday, July 11, at the Wellsville Municipal Airport in Wellsville. Event gates will open at 4:30 p.m., and the show begins at 6 p.m. For complete event details, please visit www.RockTheTarmac.com.

Opening bands for the event will be two-time Rock Album of the Year winners Manic Drive along with Scarlet White, who has had three songs from their most recent album reach the top ten on the charts with one hitting number one.

“It feels amazing to be in a position to host a concert event like Rock the Tarmac with artists like the ones we have in our lineup!” said Keith Chase, festival coordinator and director of the Southern Tier Youth for Christ. “They [the bands] are either at the top of their careers or on the threshold of HUGE success....

These bands are in high demand, and they chose to be here in Allegany County!”

Last year, the first Rock the Tarmac event kicked off with great success, garnering between 750 and 1,000 people. In addition, there were multiple vendors on site including food, merchandise, and sponsors.

With the headlining bands for this year’s event, there is anticipation for attendance of 3,000 to 4,000 people—so many, in fact, that the airport will be completely closed during the event to ensure maximum safety of all the spectators.

Case further commented, “If you thought last year was awesome...wait, because this year is going to blow your mind!”

The performance will be on the tarmac of the Wellsville Municipal Airport located at 2600 Tarantine Road, Wellsville. There will also be an array of food and merchandise vendors, and the festival will go on whether rain or shine.

Headliners, We As Human, were discovered by Skillet frontman, John Cooper, who has also had much influence on their career and albums. In 2013, the band was nominated for the GMA Dove Award: Rock Song of the Year.

The band has had their self-titled album chart in the top ten of two Billboard charts, and, in 2014, their song “Take Bullets Away” hit number one.

We as Human has played with such notable rock bands as Skillet, Korn, Alterbridge, Papa Roach and Shinedown. They are currently on the Atlantic Records label.

“We As Human” will headline Rock the Tarmac July 11.

The DIY Farmer's Wife Approach

Bees buzzing, flowers in bloom

It's finally Summer! The bees are buzzing, the flowers are blooming and the local "U-picks" are open. Lately I've been canning and eating lots of fresh strawberries. Therefore, I thought it was appropriate to share my favorite butter biscuit recipe. These biscuits are easy and quick to make and best enjoyed with a teaspoon of strawberry jam or fresh strawberries and homemade whipped cream.

Butter Biscuits

1 3/4 c flour (I use spelt flour for low gluten)
2 1/2 t baking powder
1 t salt
6T chilled butter
3/4 c raw milk

Mix dry ingredients together. Cut in chilled butter and then slowly add milk. For cut out biscuits add a little extra flour and roll out on floured surface. For drop biscuits scoop and plop on a greased baking sheet (I use my pizza stone) and bake at 450 degrees for 10-15 minutes.

If you have some household tips to share or questions to ask of The Farmer's Wife, e-mail it to: Kristinamariesnyder@gmail.com or write to her at: The Farmer's Wife, 1724 Randolph Road, Alfred Station, NY 14803.

25 Years Ago, July 5, 1990

Alice Bel Aldrich is the "dean" of the Alfred University support staff. Aldrich, secretary to the dean of the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, was honored by President Edward G. Coll Jr. for her 40 years' service to the institution during the annual Support Staff Recognition Day picnic at the president's house. "This is a very special and distinctive award, created especially for Bel Aldrich," said President Coll. No other University employee in recent memory, he said, can match Aldrich's 40 years of service. "When Aldrich, an Alfred Station resident, was hired 40 years ago, she was right out of high school and her job was 'temporary'..."

(Photo) Alfred University Support Staff employees honored for their years of service to the University included Alice Bel Aldrich, Alfred Station, 40 years; Marguerite Ormsby, Wellsville, 10 years; Deborah Horton, Hornell, 10 years; Sandra Hackett, Almond, 20 years; Rita Sibble, Andover, 10 years; William Koskie, Hornell, 10 years; and Jerry Kernan, Almond, 20 years; Robert Coddington, Hornell, 10 years; Allen Ormsby, Alfred Station, 20 years; and James Kelly, Hornell, 10 years.

Gene Castroville, director of athletics, announced Jones' appointment as the men's basketball coach during a news conference last Wednesday at McLane Center...

In 1960, John F. Reynolds published a book called THE ALMOND STORY—The Early Years. On pages 92-93 he tells us that a preliminary meeting was held in 1821 for the purposes of discussing the pending breakup of the current Township of Alfred into smaller geographic areas. It was necessary to choose a name for the proposed new town. "It is said that while this matter was under consideration, a boy passed a dish of almonds to those assembled." This is supposed to have suggested the name of Almond to David Crandall who made a motion to that effect, and it was unanimously adopted. This account was undoubtedly taken from Beers' Allegany County History. Now we doubt this source as another "Parson Weem's Myth"... Ruth Karr Sisson completed the Karr Family Genealogy in the 1970s. Three Karrs came originally from Scotland where they had lived by the Almond River. Almond, NY is situated at the junction of the Karr, McHenry and Whitney Valleys. It seems more likely that the town's name was chosen by the Karrs and other settlers of Scottish descent in honor of the area from which they had come... Almond is not pronounced as are the nuts—"ah-mond." We understand that in Scotland it is the Al'mond River, not the Ah-mond River. The name of our town is pronounced Al'mond...

10 Years Ago, June 30, 2005

(Photo) Family Affair—Peter FitzRandolph, son of Winfield and Claire Randolph of Alfred, a few weeks ago had the privilege of awarding a bachelor of arts degree in economics, magna cum laude, to his son, Colin upon graduation from St. Lawrence University. Colin was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and played center on the Saints' Division I hockey team for four years. He has accepted a position with Goldman Sachs in Manhattan in equity derivative sales.

The Educational Foundation of Alfred, Inc., a private foundation representing faculty, staff, and friends of Alfred State College and dedicated to improving the ASC community through support of educational programs, has gifted 2.82 acres of land to the college, the former site of Wood and North Hall dormitories, and future site of new townhouse-style residence halls. The land, which boasts an approximately value of $25,000, has most recently been leased to the college as a parking lot since the Wood and North halls were razed in 1996. ...This enhancement will be followed by Phase II, facilities construction, slated to start in early 2006. The new townhouse development will feature a 150-bed residential complex. The project, with an estimated construction cost of nearly $12 million, will provide apartment-style residency and enhanced parking for students...

Nancy Luger grew up on a farm in Mexico, New York. As the oldest of seven children, she was expected to help get the cows into the barn at night. One way to gather cows is to trudge out into the field and chase them but Nancy learned how to call cows with her French horn and that's only one of her hundreds of adventures with music, with and without a French horn...

(Photos) New Members—Alfred Lions Club Past President Wally Higgins of Alfred Station sponsored Mark McFadden for membership in the club that begins its 40th year of service to the community. Alfred Lions Club President Sheila A. Foreman of Alfred sponsored Uma Gupta for membership in the local club...

The sisterhood of Sigma Chi Nu recently donated $77,804 to Alfred University to benefit the University's Women's Leadership Center Endowment. The sisterhood supported donating the proceeds from the sale of Sigma Chi Nu house where it would have the most impact and continue the spirit of the sorority ideals. The majority of the sisterhood believed that the new Women's Leadership Center on campus would support women in a variety of different ways and was a very good legacy for Sigma Chi Nu to stay active on campus in future years through alumnae participation in WLC programming...

Linda Staiger is great. She might brush that comment aside but members of the Alfred Village Band are lucky to have her help right now because our long-time director, Mike Shoales, is recovering from a serious illness and Linda is trying to keep his programs going both at Andover Central School and with the AVB. She's been sorting, planning, calling, organizing, conducting and working to ensure that the AVB will be on its little stage this summer...

Fifty-five seniors, members of the Class of 2005, received diplomas during the sixty-sixth annual commencement exercises at Alfred-Almond Central School, held in the high school gymnasium at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 25...

(Photo) Amidst daytime temperatures soaring to 120 degrees F., Professor Arun and Mrs. Darshana Varshneya of High Street, Alfred, catch up on their reading of the Alfred Sun at the Taj Mahal on a recent trip to India to attend the wedding of their niece at Agra. They report the white marble of the Taj was hot enough on which to fry an egg and "wish you were all here!"

Alfred. Alfred, NY. Alfred, New York. Alfred, New York 14802. Neighborhoods. People. Families. Individuals. Who are we? What is our community really like? How can we assure the benefits of living and working in Our Town? "Inspiring Community" was the theme as thirty or so people gathered at the Village Hall on Thursday, June 23. At Lake Alfred (the celebration, not the body of water), when Village Trustee Virginia Rasmussen issued an open invitation to people of the town to gather later in the month, she probably guessed that an energetic and good sized group would turn out. One person confessed he came for the three layer cheesecake made by Linda Belle. But everyone there was ready to brainstorm a list of projects and ideas that might enliven our town. Longer than the Lake Alfred (the celebration, not the body of water) Parade, the brainstormed list was the source of momentum for the rest of the evening...

‘Grace on the Hill’ begins July 11

ALFRED—Where do you find grace? What does grace mean to you? You’ve heard that God loves you. People have always said that Jesus is love and that grace is “amazing,” but what does it all mean?

Meet us up on the hill and we can talk about it or about whatever is troubling you. Come join us for “Grace on the Hill!” on Saturday, July 11 at 5:00 p.m., the first of our services at this new time.

The Alfred United Methodist Church will no longer be meeting on Sunday morning. The church is being reinvigorated. There will be contemporary as well as traditional music in a café style setting. A meal will be provided at the service.

“We want you to feel like part of the family, so don’t feel obligated to dress up, just come as you are,” a spokesman for the church said, “We have been rethinking church, making it more about Jesus’ grace and giving people a home.”

“If you feel that something is missing in your life and that God might be the answer, but just don’t know where to start, look us up,” he added, “You’ll find acceptance with us. Come up on the hill and find grace.”

Anyone who has questions or would just like to find out more about the Alfred United Methodist Church, contact Reverend Stephen Crowell at (716) 982-6469 or Kim Gayhart at (607) 587-8805 or like us on Facebook at Alfred United Methodist Church.

The church mailing address is 1389 Moland Rd., Alfred Station, NY 14803. It is located across from the Alfred State College track on Moland Road. Look for the large red roof on the hill.

Independence Day Sabbath worship at Alfred Station

ALFRED STATION—July 4, Independence Day, is a day for picnics, fireworks, and of course family. July 4 is a special day to remember: freedom, its source, and exercise the most precious freedom - gathering with others to worship God who is the source of freedom. The Declaration of Independence declares the source of freedom in this manner:

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness” (Italics provided).

Later in the history of the United States a “Bill of Rights” was added to the United States Constitution. In this “Bill of Rights” it sets forth what are valued freedoms. The first of these Amendments of the “Bill of Rights” declares freedoms in the following manner: “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

Here are guarantees of freedom from a human governmental standpoint.” Here is a challenge to you and your family: exercises this most precious freedom - worshipping your creator, the source of freedom.

Your friends and neighbors at the Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church, “A 3 C church: Connect-Care-Community” invite you to exercise your freedom to worship and give thanks to the source of freedom.

The Sabbath Worship Hour is at 11:00 a.m. Sabbath (Saturday) July 4 (neither interferes with picnics or fireworks). Together we will sing the hymns of freedom, and celebrate spiritual independence under God. Pastor Ken’s sermon is “The King’s Matter” from Daniel 2.

The Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church meetinghouse is located at 587 Route 244. If you would like further information call the church office at 607-587-9176. See you and your family this Sabbath.

THE GLORY OF AMERICA

Thursday, July 2

On this day in 1776, the Thirteen Colonies voted to separate from Great Britain. A hush fell over the room. The late afternoon sun fired a brass candlestick on the green felt tablecloth, a pair of spectacles, the silver knob of a walking stick. Men gazed out the window, some with tears in their eyes. A few prayed. Their chairman, John Hancock, broke the silence: “Gentlemen, the price on my head has just doubled!”

A wry chuckle followed, then Sam Adams rose: “We have this day restored the Sovereign, to Whom alone men ought to be obedient. He reigns in Heaven and...from the rising to the setting sun, may His Kingdom come!”

MARSHALL & MANUEL, TLTG, 309.

Betsy re-learns the songs of the birds each summer

For the Birds...

By BETSY BROOKS
Alfred Sun Columnist

Each summer, I need to re-view and sometimes re-learn the songs of the birds I am likely to encounter on my breeding bird censuses. I've been spoiled all spring, for the most part, by having the birds in my hand to identify. Every identification in bird banding is made by scanning field guides and in some cases (like with similar-looking thrushes) taking precise measurements of certain feathers. The birds certainly don't sing during the process of banding, although we occasionally have birds sing in their cloth bag as they wait for their turn to be banded!

For official bird censuses, like the ones we have in October, April and May in Allegany County, and for the Breeding Bird Censuses and the Breeding Bird Survey I do, I need to be able to identify the birds I see or hear without the advantage of having them in my hand. Over the years, I began to concentrate more on identification of birds by their vocalizations – whether they are the territorial song, or call notes, or flight calls, or alarm calls, or even the chirps given during night-time migration.

In the late '60s and early '70s I would put one of the 33 1/3 records on in the Peterson Field Guide to Bird Songs of Eastern and Central North America, and while I washed dishes or folded diapers, I would listen to the vocalizations of some of the over 300 species of land and water birds – each one solemnly announced with the name of the bird and the page it could be found on in Roger Tory Peterson's Field Guide to the Birds.

I still remember how clever I felt when I first heard a Clay-colored Sparrow singing in one of Eddie Foster's Christmas tree plantations. I didn't know what species it was, but I knew which side of the record it was on! And that is how I learned most of the vocalizations of birds in the western New York area.

It has always been fun to compare notes with Elsie Cushing on a bird in the neighborhood. She had learned a lot of the songs before I did ... listening to the classic early method to teach people bird songs. It was a '78' record made by Arthur Allen, the founder of the Lab of Ornithology at Cornell. He taught by putting words to the songs. For instance, Elsie learned that the Scarlet Tanager sings like a robin with a cold "hurry, worry, flurry, blurry!" Allen taught the Song Sparrow song as "hip, hip, hooray boys that spring is here again!"

Some of the field guides in the late 1960's (like the popular Golden Press Field Guide to Birds of North America) used sonograms to teach bird songs, a technique developed by Dr. Paul Kellogg, another Lab of Ornithology great. These sonograms were essentially an electronic refinement of the system Aretas A. Saunders had devised in 1935. The trick with this system was to start with studying the sonograms of the vocalizations of birds you were very familiar with and to see how they were interpreted and represented in the sonogram. You could then attempt to interpret the sonograms of birds whose songs you were trying to learn.

Real progress was made when cassettes replaced LP records. I remember taking cassettes and a tape deck in my car when I did my Breeding Bird Surveys ten or 15 years ago. But now we are WAY beyond that ... with apps for identifying birds by their vocalizations that can go right in the field with you. If you go to the Lab of Ornithology website, look in All About Birds and then Birding Basics and then scroll down to Songs and Calls. You'll get a wealth of good information about learning bird songs.

Birds sing their territorial songs when they are on breeding territory in breeding season. They have year-round vocalizations...usually shorter than the spring/summer songs. Some birds, like chickadees, sing the same 'territorial' song year round. I've developed a habit of whistling for chickadees (I can whistle their song better than they can!) to get other birds to move in closer so I can see them better.

Sometimes I find myself doing my chickadee whistle on my bird walks in Texas. The trouble is...the chickadee in Texas is the Carolina Chickadee, not our Black-capped Chickadee, and Carolina Chickadees sing a 4-note song while 'our' chickadees sing a 2-note song. I can just imagine those Texas chickadees shaking their heads and saying 'there's that bird-lady again who thinks we're New York chickadees!'

What's your favorite bird song? Do you favor the loud and brassy song of the Baltimore Oriole?

Or the rather boring two-note phrases of an Indigo Bunting?

The bird I most enjoy conversation with is a White-throated Sparrow. My whistled call has actually been deemed 'better than theirs!' I can draw them in from a hundred yards away and engage in a 10-minute back and forth conversation with them!

But my favorite bird song is probably the call of a Winter Wren, often near a stream, in the woods. It's a song that would be just about impossible to whistle, so I don't even try! For the past two summers, there has been a nesting pair of Winter Wrens fairly close to the path that runs between the old campground and Foster Lake. I heard it on our bird walk around the lake last Sunday. That made the day for me!

AU moving up in Empire 8 Conference

were edged, 14-13, by Western New England in the tournament title game to finish the year 13-4, the team's best record in two decades. AU won a school-record five Empire 8 games and four Saxons earned all-conference recognition. Among them was freshman Jake Lynch (Whitney Point), who was named Empire 8 and ECAC Mid-Atlantic Rookie of the Year.

Several other Saxon teams enjoyed success in 2014-15 as well.

Senior Chrissy Behr (Surf City, NJ/Southern Regional) won Empire 8 and state titles in the 50-meter freestyle to lead the women's swimming and diving team at the Empire 8/Upper New York State Collegiate Swimming Association championships. Behr (First Team) and sophomore Dylan Staniszewski (Oakton, VA) (Second Team) each earned Empire 8 all-conference recognition. On the men's side, three Saxon seniors earned all-conference honors. David Luke (Ocala, FL/West Port) was a First Team all-star and went on to compete at the NCAA championships, while David Coombes (Dansville) and Zac Toth (Lockport/Starpont) were each named to the Second Team.

Seniors Miasia Hillman (Buffalo/Hutch Tech) and Sean Locker (Corning-Painted Post West) enjoyed tremendous success in track and field, each making a return trip to the NCAA Division III outdoor championships. Hillman was outstanding in the indoor season, winning state and Empire 8 titles in the 60-meter dash and a state crown in the 200-meter dash. She set school indoor records in those events and the 400-meter dash. Hillman's success carried over to the outdoor season, when she won state and Empire 8 titles in both the 100-meter and 200-meter races, setting E8 championship meet records in both events and a school record in the latter. Hillman, who qualified for the national meet in the 100 meters last year, competed in that event and the 200 meters this spring. Locker also competed a second straight year at the outdoor nationals, in the pole vault. He won Empire 8 and New York state titles in the javelin, then took second at the ECAC championships, turning in a throw of 60.77 meters to break his own school record.

The AU Western and English equestrian teams

each sent two riders to the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA) national championships. Senior Lexi Buckheit (Mansfield, PA), competing in her fourth straight Western nationals, took fourth in open reining, while teammate, sophomore Erica Wise (Dansville), was fourth in beginner horsemanship. In the English national show, junior Stephanie Zimicki (Lockport/St. Mary's) took second in intermediate equitation, while junior Cassandra McCann (Gouverneur) earned honorable mention in novice equitation on the flat.

The football team, under the direction of first-year head coach Bob Rankl, went 5-5. The Saxons will look to compete for an Empire 8 crown in 2015, as they return 16 starters (eight on both offense and defense), including five conference all-stars.

The men's tennis team saw the return of Brian Friedland as head coach and went 11-4 and just missed out on the postseason. The Saxon's 5-3 Empire 8 record tied with two other teams for third in the conference, but they missed out on the league championship tournament due to tiebreakers. Junior Connor Doud earned all-conference honors for a third straight year.

Three other teams had coaches in either their first or second years. A young but talented women's soccer team, led by second-year coach Aileen Ascolese, had an Empire 8 all-star in freshman goalkeeper Sammy Jo Shanahan (Valley Stream South). The volleyball team, guided by first-year coach Amanda Hubbard, beat Hartwick for its first E8 tournament win in three seasons. Senior Kaitlyn Button (Cazenovia) earned all-Empire 8 honors (her third time in four years) for the women's lacrosse team, led by first-year coach Erynn Anderson.

The future looks bright for Alfred University's sports teams, particularly in how they fare in Empire 8 competition. Vecchio pointed to a trend over the last four years that signifies a climb up the E8 ranks.

"Our graduating seniors had only won 27 Empire 8 games in their first year at AU (2011-12) and concluded their careers by winning 52 E8 contests this year," Vecchio noted. "That is a significant and noteworthy accomplishment and I look forward to continued progress, and more Empire 8 championships, in the years ahead."

The Dugout

By DOUG LOROW
Alfred Sun Sports Columnist
dugout2@gmail.com

HITS AND MISSES:

The Hornell Dodgers are starting to play like they did last year when they swept thru the NYCBL in regular season action and then grabbed the championship in the playoffs. Coach Tom Kenney's squad had won six-straight games as of Sunday past, dodging rain-drops and moving contests from a soggy Maple City Park. The Dodgers were at (15-7) on the year after a slow start as they played "home" games at the Houghton facility over the weekend. Hornell set all kinds of records last season as they were regular season and playoff champs. New players galore, plus the weather, probably slowed things down this year at the start but they appear to be clicking on all cylinders now. Heading to the game this Sunday evening in Webster with noted area photographer, Leo Nealon as the Dodgers will take on the Rochester Ridgemen (ex-Alfred). Hoping to run into team GM, Paul Welker of Webster who "doubles" as the Alfred State SID. His brother, Andrew Welker coached daughter Lauren in her injury-abbreviated senior season of hoops at Webster Schroeder.

At the completion of play on Sunday nite, the AL East Division in MLB had the top four teams separated by ONE game as this grouping isn't exactly a powerhouse this season. Baltimore and Tampa Bay were tied at the top with the Yanks and Blue Jays barely behind. Only the struggling Boston Red Sox (shame) weren't in this division race.

Speaking of the Rays from Tampa Bay who play in St. Pete's, A-A grads ... Jake, Frank and Scummer took in a BoSox-Rays game over the weekend as TB prevailed, 4-1. Have to give this team credit as injuries galore have hit the staff and everyday lineup, the only recognizable name is their third sacker and they just keep on winning. The Scum (ex-Red Sox) might be jumping ship according to Taft (ex-Reds) and Our Man (ex-Mets). Scummer will have to do a lot of "team changing" to approach the likes of Stubb.

Jon Lester of the Chicago Cubs, the "ace" of the young team, dropped to (4-6) last week on the year after falling to the LA Dodgers. Lester, the former BoSox hurler armed with a humongous contract, had a unique pitching line in that game: 4-4-4-4-4-(5)-4.03 ERA. Innings, hits, runs, earned runs, walks, K's and his ERA.

Meanwhile, LA Dodger ace, Clayton Kershaw dropped to (5-6) on the year. Yikes! Easily one of the top 3-4 pitchers in the game today but not exactly having his standard Cy Young Award winning campaign. The Dodgers were still in first in the NL West though, barely ahead of the defending WS champs from San Francisco. Mark O'Meara (not the golfer) says the "Giants will overhaul the Dodgers, per normal!"

How about this Sunday past MLB debut for pitcher Steven Matz of the Mets. Matz pitched into the eighth inning and got the win in his debut as he was called up from "AAA" to join an already young and impressive staff. In addition, he went 3-for-3 at the plate and drove in four runs. Tough to top that first outing.

Last week the Arizona Diamondbacks and the Colorado Rockies squared off in a game with the starting pitcher for each team having a last name of De La Rosa. Rubby went for the losing D-Backs while Jorge pitched for the winning Rockies team.

The Women's World Cup of soccer is down to the semi-finals and leave it to FIFA to screw that up. Germany, the #1-ranked team in the world, took on #3-France in a quarter-final game last week. #1 versus #3 in the quarter-finals? Now the Germans will play Team USA (Tuesday past) in the semi-finals. The United States is ranked #2 in the world! Why are all these teams grouped on the same side of the brackets? Were the brackets drawn out of a hat after the round robin portion of the tournament? Germany and Team USA should be meeting in the finals or seeded to meet that way. The USA played in Montreal on Tuesday and if victorious, the finals are this Sunday at Vancouver. Team USA has a great defense and they'll need it against the German squad.

Former SUNY Geneseo women's soccer player, Rian Jock took in the China-USA game last week. Great name for an athlete!

Watched the NBA draft last week with interest to, first of all, see where the three Duke players would go and then who the Detroit Pistons would take in the #8 slot. Jahili Okafor "dropped" to #3 and the Philadelphia Sixers as they seem to be stockpiling centers and foreign players who stay overseas after the draft. Okafor, of the

It was a banner year for AU Saxons

ALFRED—It was a banner year for Alfred University's intercollegiate athletics program in 2014-15, as a school single-season record four teams competed in their respective Empire 8 Conference championship tournaments, with the softball team winning a conference crown.

Saxon teams competing in sports sponsored by the Empire 8 finished sixth in the Empire 8 Commissioner's Cup standings, the best ever for AU in the 16-year history of the conference. The Commissioner's Cup rankings are determined by how teams finish in the league standings of each Empire 8-sponsored sport.

Saxon teams finished in the top four in six sports, with a school-record four—men's soccer, women's tennis, men's basketball and softball—competing in Empire 8 championship tournament. Two other AU teams—men's tennis and men's lacrosse—finished among the top four in the league standings, but missed out on berths in their respective conference tournaments due to tiebreakers.

"I am extremely proud of the efforts of our coaches and student-athletes in raising the competitive level across the department," said Paul Vecchio, Director of Athletics. "We made some giant strides amongst our Empire 8 competitors which is where we will always measure our athletic progress."

By winning the AU-hosted E8 tournament, the softball team earned an automatic bid to the NCAA Division III playoffs, and proceeded to make a historic run through the national championship tournament. The Saxon swept through the Alfred Regional, then took two-of-three from Heidelberg at the Tiffin, OH, Super Regional to qualify for the eight-team Division III College World Series in Salem, VA.

AU had two National Fast-pitch Coaches Association (NFCA) All-Americans—sophomore Liz Thompson (Horseheads) and senior Alison Wickwire (Towanda, PA)—among its seven Empire 8 all-stars. Gino Olivieri earned the 250th win of his AU career and was named E8 Coach of the Year for a third time and ECAC Upstate Coach of the Year for a second time. Thompson was named Empire 8 and ECAC Upstate Player of the Year and Wickwire was named to the Division III championship all-tournament team.

The Saxons, who finished the year 40-7, were ninth in the final NFCA Division III national rankings, easily eclipsing the program's previous high of 25th in the final 2010 rankings. AU is set to return eight of 10 starters in 2016, making a third straight trip to the NCAAs a distinct possibility.

Three other AU teams—men's soccer, women's tennis and men's basketball—also competed in their respective four-team Empire 8 championship tournaments. The men's basketball team was making its second straight Empire 8 tournament appearance; for the women, it was the first time the team had competed in the E8 championships since the league adopted a four-team tournament format.

The men's soccer team, guided by first-year head coach

Matt Smith, earned a bid to the Empire 8 Conference championship tournament, its first since 2006. The tournament's fourth seed, AU took top-seeded and eventual champ Stevens through two overtime periods before falling 6-5 on penalty kicks. Smith would be named Empire 8 Coach of the Year and senior Jeff Thomas (Canandaigua) was named a First Team Empire 8 and ECAC Upstate all-star and a First Team National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NCSAA) East Region pick.

The women's tennis team won nine matches and posted a 5-3 mark in Empire 8 play. Three members of the team—junior Rachel Cook (Youngstown, OH/Laurel Springs) and seniors Brennan Ferguson (Destrehan, LA/Ursuline) and Emily Eisenberg (Oyster Bay)—earned all-conference recognition.

The men's basketball team made a second straight trip to the Empire 8 championships. The Saxons defeated nationally-ranked E8 power St. John Fisher to finish with an 11-5 E8 mark, the best league record in school history. The second-seeded Saxons made it to the tournament championship game, where they fell to top-seeded Fisher. Still, the Saxons finished the year with 19 wins, the most at AU in 26 years. Senior forward Dalton Walsh (Stockton/Cassadaga Valley) was named a First Team Empire 8 all-star, the first time in a decade a Saxon men's player had earned that distinction.

The men's lacrosse team also made the postseason, hosting the ECAC Division III championship tournament. The Saxons

NCAA champion Blue Devils, joins Nerlens Noel (UK) and the still-injured Joel Embid (KU) up front for this dysfunctional franchise. Who is going to get the ball to them? As the Detroit pick came around, with Justise Winslow still available, I shot Coach Beyer a text and just said ... Winslow! Not too biased here. Surprisingly he sent me text right back and said ... Stanley Johnson of the Arizona Wildcats. Ouch. Winslow went two picks later to the Miami Heat. Am hoping to get an interview with Coach Beyer (AU) about the process heading up to the draft, how that pick came down, free agents in the mix, etc. Not sure when that'll be though as he'll be busy in Orlando with the Pistons summer league squad. Maybe coaching it? Head Coach Stan Van Gundy (Brockport) will obviously be involved as well. And finally, guard Tyus Jones is going back home as he ended up with the Minnesota Timberwolves after a trade with the Cleveland Cavs. The MOP of the NCAA "Final Four" was a standout at Apple Valley in high school.

And Carmelo Anthony of the dreadful New York Knicks is unhappy ... again. Doesn't like their draft pick of Kristaps Porzingis and wonders "what direction the team is going?" Anthony, who chose money over a chance at an NBA title with Chicago last off-season, is probably stuck in NY and with a lousy team again this year. What free agent wants to come there and play with that ball-hog to begin with?

A bunch of NYS vanity plates spotted of late: EVEREDDY ... Frank says he always is, PHILLY P ... The Penguin, MODIEBLU, SKY SKI ... yikes, HILL ONE ... in MA, YNOTGOLF ... (me) LRN2GOLF, MIMI LUV, MYHUSTLE ... Pete Rose or Phil Mickelson? With Maine plates: GO PATS.

Serena Williams goes for the Grand Slam in women's tennis this summer while fellow American, Jordan Spieth goes for the Grand Slam of golf. Like chances of Williams but Spieth will probably come up short. Love to see a Spieth-McIlroy battle at the British Open.

Mike Hopkins will coach the Syracuse Orange men's basketball team ... someday.

Kyla Kress of Alfred-Almond took 15th, in the recent NYS track & field meet at Albany, in the pole vault at 10'6". The winner was at 11'0" so quite a logjam there. Guessing a PB for Kress?

Elena Delle Donne of the Chicago Sky in the WNBA ... wow, what a start to the season!

Just a "lovely" weekend past of weather after the week of (work) of temps in the 75-82 range. 50-degrees and rain on Sunday, end of June?
