Student Senate Ratifies Mike Cauthen for Veep

By Diana L. Tomb

Mike Cauthen, a senior anthropology major, has ratified by the Student Senate for the office of Vice-President. His opponents for the position were Jonathan Rothstein and Mark Williams.

Cauthen will officially accept his position at the Oct. 20 meeting of the Student Senate. Several days after the Senate meeting at which his position was secured, Cauthen spoke with the Fiat Lux about his plans as Vice-President.

"The most important thing to me is to increase communication and create an atmosphere for student projects." Cauthen suggested the creation of "student forums" particular interest.

"I want to create an atmosphere where people feel they can express their ideas—an intellectual atmosphere," he said. He also advocated greater outlets for student talent, both academic and creative, with possible awards or other types of incentives.

Cauthen said that his philosophy could be reduced to the following equation: "feedback plus incentive equals motivation." He also said that he would try to get more students on university committees and extend library hours during his term.

Cauthen comes from Queens, New York, where he has played an active part in community events. He plans to attend graduate school anthropology.

In other action, the Student Senate granted funds to the Cross-Country Club and heard financial proposals from the Riding Club and Psy Chi.

A vacancy on the Finance Committee was announced and the president, Mark Brostoff, explained that any student would be eligible for the position. It will remain open until the October 20 Senate meeting. Resumes may be submitted to any member of the Nominations Committee made up of Brian Samson, Patty Smith, and John Sandt.

A proposal for a new constitution committee was approved by the Senate in order to correct typographical errors and incomplete ticles as cited by Brostoff.

Poet James Dickey

American Poet James Dickey Spends Three Days at Alfred

By Rosy Liggett

James Dickey, recently declared America's "Poet Laureate" by President Carter, concluded a three-day residency on October 13th, as part of AU's Performing Artists and Speakers Series.

Dickey, though more prolific in poetry, is best known for his novel Deliverance. Made into a popular and powerful film about a canoe trip in Georgia, Deliverance made the name of James Dickey a familiar one to the American Public.

What was most noticeable about Dickey, during his visits to classes, his talk in the Campus Center as part of the Bergren Forum, and his poetry reading in Howell Hall, was his humor and wit comingled with his serious and realized artistic drives.

Dickey seemed to be able to laugh at himself, while indicating to his audience that writing is an essential part of his life. He is a writer who never "has had the well run dry"; in fact, he claims that the more he writes, the more material he finds to write about.

His most recent book, God's Images, is a rewriting of the Bible, a book Dickey feels has influenced him more than any other. He admits that everything he has written, in poetry and prose, has had little or no basis in factual experience;

he speaks of the artist's right to lie, in order to "make the truth more visible."

Speaking in the Campus Center, Dickey mentioned his friendship with President Carter. They have been friends for some time, he said. When Carter was planning his Gala Inaugural Celebration last winter, he asked Dickey to read a poem for the occasion. Rather than reading an old poem, Dickey decided to write "The Strength of Fields," a poem honoring President Carter. Dickey apparently echoes Carter's thoughts with the ending words: "My life belongs to the world; I will do what I can."

Susan Olyha Named 1977 Homecoming Queen

By Rob Hickman

Even though it was raining, homecoming still existed at Alfred on Saturday, October 1. Highlighting the halftime activities was the naming of the 1977 Homecoming Queen.

Susan Olyha was selected by a panel of seven judges, three alumni, two students, two administrators and two faculty, and based on her involvement in campus activities.

Ms. Olyha, was crowned the 1977 Homecoming Queen by the 1976 Queen Sara Huffsmith. Susan was nominated by Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity and her activities include volunteer income tax assistant, security aide supervision, and Sigma Chi Nu Sorority. She is a senior from Hastings-on-Hudson, New York.

Other nominees included Victoria Jean Ackley, senior; Mary Boyd, junior; Mary Ellen Cortese, junior; and Janet Thompson, junior.

Winners of the Homecoming Sign Contest named by the A.U. Alumni Association were Alpha Chi Rho in the mens division, Alpha Kappa Omicron in the womens division and Tefft Hall in residence Hall competition.

Public Hearing To Be Held Tue. On Noise Level

By Diana L. Tomb

The Alfred Village Board will hold a special public hearing to discuss legislation directed at noise levels in the town on Tuesday, October 18. The meeting will follow the Alfred Village Board meeting at 8:00 at the Union University Church Center.

The proposals to be discussed and considered for approval at the hearing ask for all local businesses to be closed at 2:00 a.m. The businesses that would be affected by this proposal are the Alfred Sub Shop and Aunt Cookie's Sub Shop. These stores presently remain open until 3:00 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Three Additional Scholarships Established

Three $1,000 scholarships have been established at Alfred University by the Raymond Foundation of Greene, N.Y.

Under terms of the gift, preference for awards will be given to residents of New York State, particularly to those of Chenango and Broome Counties.

The scholarships are renewable annually so long as a student maintains a "B" average at Alfred, and new recipients will be selected after the current scholarship holders have graduated.

The Raymond Foundation was created in 1962 by the late George G. Raymond of Greene and his family to provide funds for education, cultural and general charitable purposes.

Mr. Raymond's son, George G. Raymond Jr., is board chairman and president of the Raymond Corporation, manufacturers of industrial battery-powered lift trucks and related material handling equipment.

George G. Raymond Jr. is a member of the University's board of trustees.

Ex-President of IBM Plans Residency in Alfred

T. Vincent Learson, former president and board chairman of the International Business Machines Corporation, will lecture to classes and meet informally with students Nov. 6-9 at Alfred University.

His campus visit is part of a program to bring leaders in business and the professions to college campuses across the country under the auspices of the Woodrow Wilson Visiting National Fellowship Foundation.

According to the foundation, the program is under written by grants from a number of major business organizations including the Lilly Endowment, the Mobil Foundation, the Phillip D. Reed Foundation, and IBM.

Learson joined IBM in 1935

after graduating from Harvard University. He was elected a vice president in 1954, a member of the company's board in 1961, a senior vice president in 1964 and president in 1966.

He was elected chairman of the board and chief executive officer in 1971, and retired a year later.

An Alfred spokesman said one of the purposes of Learson's visit is to discuss with students their perceptions of the role of big business in American society today.

As previously announced, Learson will offer a public lecture on "Social Effects of the Computer" Nov. 9 at noon in the university's Campus Center. Admission is free.

Joe Orifici is seen standing beside the homemade wood burning kiln behind Harder Hall during the kiln's first firing. The structure was designed by Larry Lubow, a senior art student, and built this summer. The 48-hour firing which began Oct. 10 brought the interior temperature to cone 11, or 2400°, and burned about three cords of wood.

Does Alfred Need Day Care?

The Allegany County Child Care Council, Inc. is sponsoring surveys to determine the need for child care centers in two additional parts of the county: the Alfred-Almond-Andover area and the Fillmore-Rushford-Belfast area.

Funds for the surveys have been provided by the Allegany County Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Posters with attached questionnaires are being placed in many public buildings throughout the two areas, including grocery stores, medical offices, factories, and schools. Any parent interested in using a child day care program while he/she works or attends school is being urged to complete a questionnaire without delay. The surveys will last only a few weeks and the centers will not be established unless there is sufficient proof of public interest.

Additional information is available by calling Kim Lowrey in Alfred at 607-587-8282 or Joan Chandler in Fillmore at 716-567-8857.

Alfred Grad Returns to Teach Transcendental Meditation

Fons Koster--a graduate of Alfred University--will be giving a series of free introductory lectures on the Transcendental Meditation program, as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, next week on the Alfred University campus.

The first lecture entitled, "The T.M. program--development of full potential," will be given at 7:30 p.m. in the McNamara room of the Campus Center on Tuesday, Oct. 25. This lecture will cover exactly what the T.M. technique is and is not, as well as the full range of benefits one might expect to receive from its practice.

The second lecture entitled, "Mechanics of Refined Thinking," will be given the following evening, Wednesday October 26, also at 7:30 p.m. in the McNamara room. This lecture will discuss how the T.M. technique works--why it can so easily and naturally bring about the results mentioned in the first lecture.

Both lectures are free and open to all students, faculty, and area public.

Ms. Koster, who graduated in June 1976, has travelled to Avoriaz France where she attended a series of intensive training courses in order to become a teacher of the T.M. technique, as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

As a sophomore at A.U., Koster first learned how to meditate. Its effects were so beneficial, not only to her personal life, but especially to her studies, that she decided to become a T.M. teacher and share this knowledge with the town that had shared so much of its knowledge with her.

"Before beginning the T.M. technique, I was not very serious about my studies. I was tired, sluggish, and always looking for an easy way out. After practicing T.M., I became alive, energetic, and so much more aware of my surroundings. Naturally with this increased awareness, came an increased interest in school which continued to grow throughout my remaining three years at Alfred."

Koster received her B.A. in Music Education. She graduated Cum Laude with Departmental Honors and is now a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The TM Technique

The Transcendental Meditation Technique is practiced for a few minutes morning and evening as one sits comfortably with eyes closed. During this time the mind experiences subtler states of thought as physiological changes occur which correspond to this refined mental activity.

The metabolic rate is reduced by an average of 20% while the mind remains awake and able to respond to stimuli. Those practicing the technique report this state of restful alertness to be profoundly refreshing, both physically and mentally.

Accumulated tension and fatigue are dissolved in a natural way; the result being increased energy and developed creative intelligence, more inner stability and improved clarity of perception at all levels of experience.

Live Music and Talk Show New at WALF

By Brandon Scholz

In an effort to expand and diversify its current programming, WALF has added 2 new shows to the schedule.

On Fridays at 8:00 p.m., WALF will feature local musicians performing live in the studio. Each week a different type of music will be performed ranging from traditional music of the British Isles to blues-harp music. Any musicians interested in performing for 1/2 hour to an hour are urged to contact the Program Director, Nancy Cushing at 871-2287 or 587-2733.

The second new feature is a show entitled "No Topic Conversation" aired Sunday nights at 7:30. The format of the show is similar to that of an open forum, a free-for-all discussion. The topics discussed on the show are chosen by the participants each week. Because of the nature of the format, ANY students, faculty, or administrators can participate in the "No Topic Conversation". The show is designed to present a variety of viewpoints on matters of world, national, state, or local interest.

Anyone and everyone is encouraged to be on the show and/or submit topics for discussion.

To be on the "No Topic Conversation" show, please contact Brandon Scholz at 871-2287 or 587-8458. Keep tuned to WALF 89.7 FM for other new programming that will be featured this semester.

Hall of Fame Gains Four

University News Bureau

Four new members have been inducted into the Alfred University Sports Hall of Fame.

They include Steve Crossman of Manlius, football and track; Peg Neuwiesinger Gray of Dennisville, N.J., the first woman honored; Edward Mandell of New York City, holder of 18 all-time scoring records in basketball, and Dr. Frank Steele of Opelika, Alabama, Basketball captain and track champion.

Crossman won five New York State small college titles in the hurdles during the 1960-62 period and still holds the Alfred standard of 21.2 in the 220 yard dash.

Peg Gray of the Class of 1921 won letters in women's tennis, basketball and track long before the women's sports boom of today. She was one of the first women in the United States to register a perfect 300 game in bowling. She has been a teacher, civic leader, coach, official, speaker, magazine editor and painter.

Mandell, an attorney in New York City, holds Saxon records in basketball for most points in a game (46), most points in a season (658) and highest career average (22.6 for 56 games).

Mandell was a Dean's list student, basketball captain and was selected on the ECAC small college team of the year in 1964-65.

Dr. Steele was on Alfred basketball and track teams in the 1929-30-31 era. He was basketball captain and twice won Middle Atlantic States titles in the 220 and 440.

Dr. Steel was a captain of the Medical Corps during World War Two and is a member of the New York Negro basketball hall of fame. He is on the staff of the VA hospital in Tuskegee, Alabama.

Dickey

Mr. Dickey and his wife Debra departed for Washington from Alfred to be honored by President Carter as part of "National Poetry Day."

A taped television interview of Mr. Dickey was conducted by Rosy Liggett and Stephanie Lazar, and will be broadcast on local public T.V. stations.

CORRECTION

Dr. Wesley Bentz, in addition to Dr. Finlay and Dr. Bewden is a member of the Advisory Committee for the Health Professions. Dr. Bentz's name was inadvertently left out of the article that appeared in the October 3 issue of the Fiat Lux entitled "Pre-Law, Pre-Med, Graduate Info Offered by Professors".

Money Seminar

University News Bureau

Stock market investment strategies and the timing of charitable gifts will be the chief discussion topics of the seventh annual seminar for area bankers, attorneys, accountants and insurance agents Oct. 18 at Alfred University.

The featured speakers will be Dr. Wilford G. Miles Jr., dean of Alfred University's School of Business and Administration, and Peter R. Sprague, a Cuba, N.Y., attorney.

Miles will discuss investment strategies for what he calls "fearful investors" and Sprague will speak on the timing of charitable donations.

Speak Out On Noise

Last year there was quite a student uproar when certain persons in the village lobbied to make Alfred a "dry town." A petition favoring regulatory legislation on alcohol sales was circulated but as the motion was too late for the November ballot, nothing ever came of it.

Out of concern about the noise level in the village, residents have looked again to legislation to solve their problem. This time, the Village Board has a proposal before it that will require all businesses to close at 2:00 am (see article, page one). In Buffalo, the law permits businesses to remain open until 4:00 am. Rochester is considering doing the same. But here in Alfred, progressive attitudes are ignored, as usual.

Now, we understand that Alfred is not one of those villages that consciously tries to make a name for itself in the Liberal Hall of Fame. But really now, isn't it rather prudish to require all businesses to close at 2:00, especially when they have remained open longer in the past?

If this proposal is approved, the students of Alfred University and Alfred State College will be the people who are most affected. This is exactly what the village wants to see happen. They want the students to stay in their dorms and be very, very quiet. Well, it just won't work that way. College students are, by their very nature, a loud and even rowdy bunch. We are dealing in generalizations here, of course, but the vast majority of students find themselves under a great deal of academic and even social pressure. They often release this pressure in loud and boisterous ways and usually at odd hours.

Since students live in Alfred for nine months out of the year they should be considered a part of the community by the townspeople. After all, many of the businesses that offer services to the entire community would not exist if student dollars did not support them. Students must also understand that if they wish to be considered a part of the community they must accept a certain amount of responsibility.

First, students should follow the "golden rule" when out late at night. The crazy hours that many students follow are not often those of the typical year-round resident. Therefore, they should make an effort to suppress loud talk, singing, racing of motors, and related activities after certain hours.

Secondly, students need to take a hand in local politics. Not being legal residents, they cannot vote on issues concerning the community but they can still find a voice in the village. We urge all students to consider attending the public hearing that will be held Tuesday evening. The only way that students will be heard in the town (and we are not talking about singing at 2:00 am) will be if they speak out. Attend the meetings, find out first hand what is going on and then make up your mind as to what you, the student, want to have happen in this place where you spend nine months out of the year.

Unexpected Education

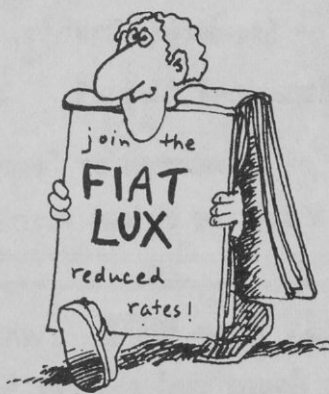

Many students, and especially those in the English Department had the pleasure of hearing James Dickey speak on campus last week. With his low, Southern drawl he made his prose and poetry come alive for students in classes and public readings. The Performing Artists and Speakers series brought us a great artist and a good speaker who even threw in a bit of acting here and there.

Unfortunately, a few students also had the displeasure of seeing Mr. Dickey at a reception in his honor after his reading. At this reception, Dickey proceeded to drink himself into a stupor, an action that some felt began much earlier in the day. Dickey embarrassed himself and the people who had come to honor him by acting in such an indiscreet manner.

James Dickey might very well be a man with a problem—an alcoholic one. His public display, however, earns him no sympathy from the students who witnessed it. Seeing a literary "great" stagger out of a faculty home clutching a half-full bottle of bourbon is a sight that they will remember for a long time. It was a disillusioning experience.

The purpose of the Performing Artists and Speakers Series is, in part, to provide an educational experience for the students through cultural happenings. The education that students received this last week was one that PAS was not bargaining for.

Dear Editor:

I should like to point out that the National Science Foundation's award of $20,000. to Alfred University (Fiat Lux, October 3) was the result of a proposal written by Dr. James S. Reed, Associate Professor of Ceramic Engineering. The work will be carried out by M.S. and Ph. D. graduate students under his direction.

Dr. Reed is an International authority on the processing of ceramic materials and he was also responsible for the previous National Science Foundation grant of $43,000. to Alfred University.

Yours sincerely,
D.R. Rossington, Head
Division of Engineering and

Plant Talk

by Melody Campbell

Gesneriad! No, this is not a new disease sweeping the campus, but a family of popular houseplants, the smallest of which, Sinningia pusilla is rapidly becoming a favorite among average plant growers and specialists alike.

S. pusilla is commonly known as the miniature gloxinia. Miniature is really an understatement; these plants are the smallest blooming domestic houseplants.

The plant grows from a small roundish tuber, and the leaves, which are oval, medium to dark green and hairy ("pubescent"), seem to grow off a main stem (unlike their close cousin, the African Violet, whose leaves grow from individual stalks). Actually the only real stem on the plant is that on which the flower is borne.

The flowers of the natural variety are lavender to purple, trumpet-shaped and rather long-lived. (They remind you of the amplification horns on those antique gramophones, or are somewhat like cornucopia.) Hybrid varieties flower in hues ranging from white to red to purple, with combinations and variations of these.

So how does one grow the little darlings? Plunk the tuber into average potting soil, watering enough to keep the soil moderately moist but allowing the upper crust to dry a bit between waterings.

Unlike the African Violet, Sinningia are not fussy about humidity, drainage, or water temperature. I have mine growing in teacups, and they are watered with water only at room temperature (rather than the tepid water African Violets demand). Considering the blooms they have had for over a week now, the Openhym dryness has no effect on them.

You may want to watch new arrivals for whitefly. Also, one other little advantage of Sinningia is that even if the entire upper portion of the plant is injured and severed from the tuber, as long as the tuber remains healthy, new growth will come up soon.

The Forest People Speak

By Gregg Smith

Nagumba! Nagumba! Panawana rocks and trees! And further—the Forest People are those students who are actively involved in wilderness adventures. We travel by foot, cross-country skis, canoes, and bicycles.

We also do workshops to teach such skills as backpacking, cross-country skiing, rock climbing, navigation, canoeing, and survival (we have been known to act like Indians).

At our last meeting we decided to join forces with The Environmental Action Committee in order to process pottles, jars, cans, and paper which we sell to companies who recycle them into glass, steel, aluminum, and pulp paper.

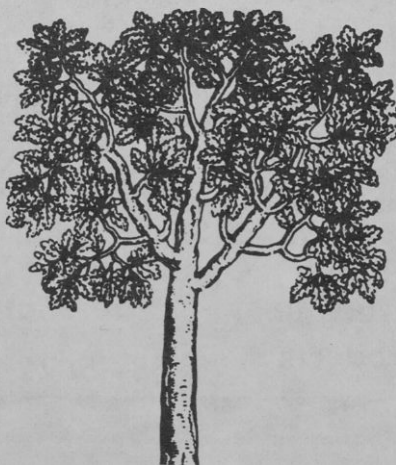

The revenues from this operation are split between us and the E.A.C. It's a wilderness adventurer's co-op. With each of us spending a few hours each semester recycling and/or leading trips, teaching skills, or manning the Outdoor Programs Resource Center in the Campus Center, we derive such benefits as more trips and programs, reduced rates on rental equipment, money to buy rental equipment and fund activities, priority on trips and when renting equipment, and discounts at the Alfred Sports Center and from The Bicycle Man.

Right now we are arranging a 10½ discount on purchases from recreational Equipment, Inc. (R.E.I.). If you're interested in this discount or want to find out more about The Forest People, come to the Outdoor Programs Resource Center at the end of the hall which is to the right of the Campus Center information desk on Wednesday, Oct. 19 from 12:30-2:00.

Our next meeting will be Tuesday, Oct. 25 in the Parents Lounge of the C.C. People interested in a backpacking trip to the Phillip's Creek area on the weekend of October 22 and 23rd should go to Shults H on Tuesday, Oct. 18 at 7:00.

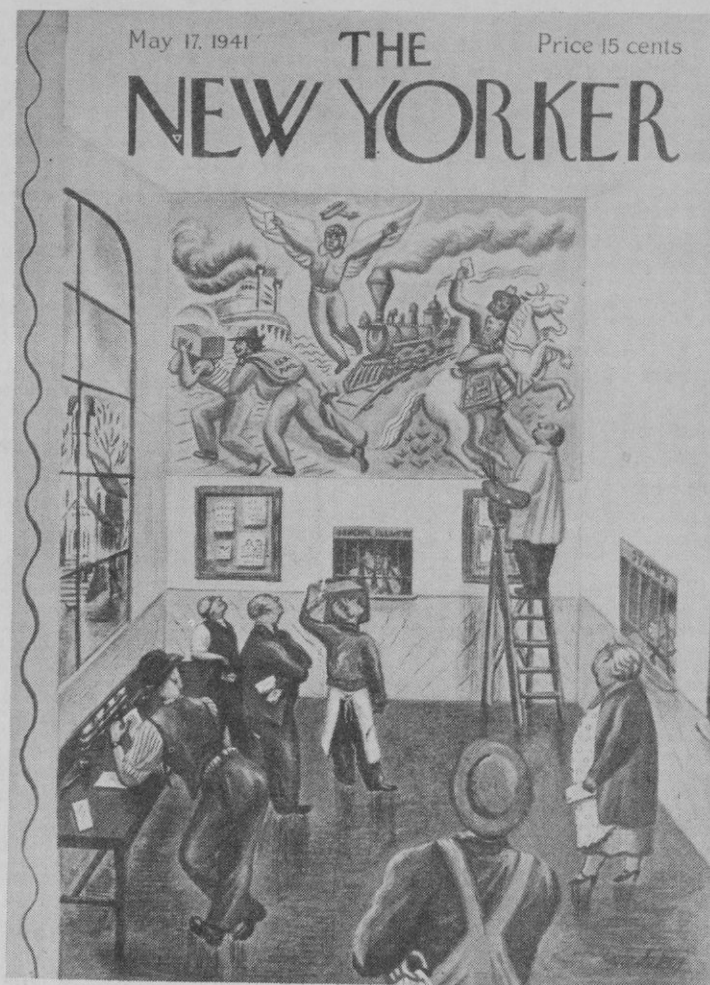

Topics to be discussed will include "rock climbing".

Anyone interested in a bicycle parts co-op with savings of 25-50% can go to The Bicycle Man on Tuesday, Oct. 18 at 7:00.

WPA and FAP Art Work Featured in Exhibit

1941 Cover for The New Yorker depicting the government subsidized artistry that was common during the New Deal.

By Rosemary Ricchio

New Deal for Art, an exhibition of government art projects of the 1930's, with examples from New York City and State, is currently on view at the Fosdick-Nelson Gallery. The show includes some 147 pieces by various artists supported by Franklin Roosevelt's Works Progress Administration/Federal Art Project.

The exhibition, sponsored by the National Endowment for the humanities, will be at Alfred University through October 29 and consists of several presentations, all of which are open to the public.

The exhibition itself is being shown in two sections: Part I—Paintings and Murals, October 12-20, and Part II—Graphics and Photography, October 24-29. On each Tuesday afternoon, through the end of the month, at 1:00 p.m., a slide presentation of murals commissioned by the W.P.A. will be shown in the Harder Hall auditorium. Each Thursday, also at 1:00, a film will be shown in the same location.

On Wednesday, October 19, at 4:00 p.m., the New York Council for the humanities is sponsoring a public forum: "Public Art and the Community." The discussion will be based on the forum and content of public art in the 1930's and 1960's, and what criteria and procedures, if any, one can use to assess the excellence of art in a public setting.

Guest panelists include Susan Kiok, director of the Public Research Council; Doris Freedman, director of the Public Arts Council and City Walls; and artists Ernest Crichlow and Robert Cronbach who both participated in New Deal Programs. Historian Gerald Markowitz, one of the organizers of the exhibition will be moderator.

Announcements

Two representatives of the Mexican language institute Fenix from Guernavaca have announced a 3-week live-in project with a Mexican family during January.

The project will cost the individual student as follows:

- 3-week instruction $180.
- board and accomodation with a local family chosen by the Institute $105.
- registration fee also covering incidentals in group situations $50. Total $335.

This amount is payable by mid-November to the coordinator of the program for the Mexican institute Dr. Kohler, Seidlin 206, or his substitute (to be announced later).

The plane fare from New York to Mexico City and back is $348 ($10 more on weekends). Bus fare from Hornell to Mexico city is $192.

Students who wish to participate in this project must receive Dr. Trice's written approval on an independent study Allenterm proposal. Twelve participants are needed and students from other colleges are accepted.

All colleges in the SUNY system offer credit work done in Guernavaca. It is the feeling of the Spanish Department that a trip as such would be in the interest of all students in Spanish as the experience would greatly add to their foreign language studies.

Alfred's Highly-Ranked Ski Team Prepares for New Season

The Alfred Ski Team will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, October 18 at 7 pm in the Davis Gym upstairs classroom. This is an organizational meeting and all skiers interested in competing or training in alpine or cross country skiing as well as jumping are invited to attend.

Skiing is one of the varsity sports at Alfred and its teams compete in Division II of the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association. The league includes Cornell, Syracuse, Buffalo, Cortland, Colgate, West Point, RPI, Union, Clarkson, Binghamton, Hamilton.

During the 1977 season, Alfred teams placed very high and finished with the highest number of points in the league. Three Alfred skiers were nominated to the All Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Team.

The ski coach, Savo Jevremovic (office: Myers Hall 115 B, phone: 871-2226) or the team captain, Tom Olson (Kruson 309, phone: 871-6178) can give further information on the ski team and its activities.

Cross Country Team Ready for Big Meet

By Gary Esterow

One year ago, the Cross Country team finished in last place in the ICAC Conference Meet. This year could be different, according to coach Cliff DuBreuil. "This year we could win it," he said.

DuBreuil said, "There are no alibis for last year's last place showing. We just didn't run well. However I feel that we are contenders now and that we can take the conference."

Seven teams will compete in the meet which will be held on Saturday October 29 at R.I.T. St. Lawrence and R.P.I. appear to be the two teams the Saxons will have to worry about. RIT, Clarkson, Hobart and Ithaca, the other teams competing in the meet, might have something to say about that though.

The team's record is 1-2 as of this writing. They lost to Niagara and the Greater Rochester Track Club, a post-college team. The lone victory came at the hands of R.I.T.

Key personnel for coach DuBreuil's squad have been Bruce Barnes, Mark Curley, Dave Price, Barry Sullivan, Phil Tscorke, and Keith Venuti. Also, Chrissa Elfes, Kate Ritson, and Tina Cantelmi have been doing a fine job for the team.

According to coach DuBreuil, "The team is coming along fine. Morale is high." The team is now looking forward to the meet at R.I.T. where they hope to improve on last year's performance.

Tennis

Several more matches have been played in the Round Robin competition. Still leading are Steve Brady, Dave Spalten, and Ted Wimborg.

Basketball

Basketball tryouts officially start on October 17.

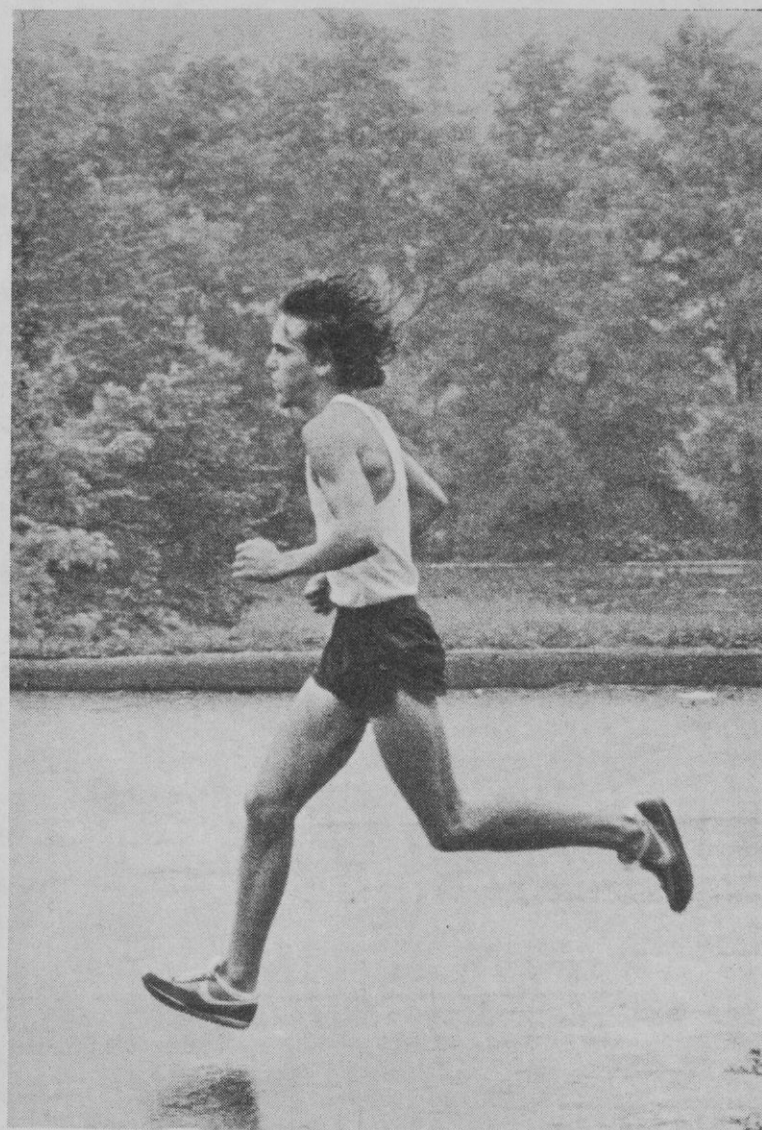

Thanks from Gary

This will be my last article for the Fiat Lux. In the year plus that I have been covering sports for the Fiat, I have had the pleasure of meeting and working with many fine people.

I would like to thank all the coaches for the openness and frankness that they displayed about their teams. Thanks to their cooperation, my job was made a lot easier. I can only wish them and their respective teams continued success, this year and in the seasons to come.

Not many people know who John Nelson is. He is in charge of Sports Publicity for Alfred University. Since I started writing for the Fiat, John has been behind me, helping me to become a better writer by taking time out from his busy schedule to look over my articles and pointing out the weak as well as the strong areas. John helped me gain a lot of confidence in my writing and for that I am most grateful.

Bruce Barnes, running for the Alfred Cross-Country Club against the Rochester club.
