Congressman Tom Reed in Belmont:

First term like 'drinking from a fire hose'

By ELAINE HARDMAN

Alfred Sun Reporter

BELMONT--The horn room in Amity Town Hall in Belmont filled with about 40 citizens, several staff members and local Republican officials Saturday afternoon, Feb. 26, when U.S. Rep. Tom Reed R-Corning held an open meeting to present his support for cuts to domestic programs.

Reed said that his first term as a member of congress was an intense experience comparing it to "drinking from a fire hose." He complimented his staff.

Reed recognized that the budget proposal passed under Speaker Boehner could lead to a government shutdown. He said he hoped there would be no crises since, "Nobody wins in a government shutdown."

Reed presented a chart illustrating the national debt showing it would amount to $14 trillion in the next 5 years. The chart, not adjusted for inflation, was striking for that reason. Reed said that his calculations were reviewed and supported independent sources but gave no references.

Reed said that he has met with numerous CEOs and Fortune 500 company representatives as well as small business owners and they have led him to believe that it is the uncertainty in the country that keeps them from investing the $2 trillion that they have sitting in their coffers. He feels the current House leadership is committed to changing how federal money is spent.

He then took written questions.

--David from Angelica wrote that folks who have contributed long-term to Social Security should not be short cut on benefits.

Reed stated that Social Security is bankrupt. (Note: The Congressional Budget Office claims a 90 percent chance that the Social Security trust funds will be solvent through 2029--but a 10 percent chance of a positive balance in 2054.) Reed said that the idea of privatizing SS has no legs and but there is some chance of changing the qualifying age, the cap for deductions and for a means test for benefits. The most important point, said

Reed, is that people are talking about changes to this federal program.

A clarification question from the floor asked why the SS trust fund isn't left alone and Reed joked that accounting in Washington doesn't make sense. He said that $2.5 trillion has been borrowed from the fund and he feels that it is possible that the government will default on this.

--Ken from Scio asked Reed to comment on Wisconsin and Reed said, "It's troublesome to see demonstrations in state capitals. It will come to Ohio, California and New York. I applaud the governor of Wisconsin for drawing a line in the sand."

--Josephine in Amity said that she was concerned that Social Security recipients haven't had a COLA in recent years and that now the HEAP program is being cut. She would rather have legislators and federal workers pay part of their own health coverage costs and eliminate life time benefits.

--Reed said that he chose the postal worker's health plan and he does help to pay for it. He said there is no program giving free health care for life.

He said that everyone wants cuts but nobody wants their program to be cut. He has to look at cost benefit returns. If the federal government spends money on fire fighters or infrastructure, those expenses have to benefit many in the long run.

--Laura, from Independence, asked for comments on jobs being sent to China. Reed told her that he has great resources at his disposal and just talked with the CEO of Microsoft about in China. He said that there is no formal trade agreement with China but that recently the Obama Administration has dealt with the issue of manipulation of currency value. He said that the move now is to deal with China with attention to cultural interpretations. If the Chinese are accused of stealing, it attacks their sense of honor and they listen.

He said that we need to end regulations to bring jobs back to the US.

There was a statement in opposition to foreign aid but Reed said that sometimes foreign aid is necessary. Money was given to Mubarak in Egypt in order to protect the Suez Canal. He said that foreign aid should always be used to try to control other governments rather than trying to involve the military.

--David from Independence said that with all the talk about jobs he believed that the first priority of the Republican-led House would be jobs but all the legislation introduced has been about abortion. Was John Boehner, he asked, misleading people when he talked about jobs or does he just lack plans?

Reed said cutting the budget is the job plan. Cutting the budget will control the debt and bring stability to the equation and then bring private money into the economy to create jobs.

Reed said that abortion was not important to many people but that cutting programs was.

--Tony from Andover said that when he was a child, local companies supported the community by giving money to schools and hospitals as well as to universities for research and development. He said that now companies have decreased their tax contribution and don't get involved in communities. They look for short term gains by shutting factories and sending work overseas.

Reed said that the answer is to ignite the workforce, decrease everyone's tax burden, decrease regulation and cut spending.

--Joanne suggested that since so much of the budget is defense it would be better to redirect some of that money to build hospitals or use it for education or to put people to work.

Reed responded that he doesn't support a "zero defense budget."

He said that defense spending should be cut but that money can't be used elsewhere or it wouldn't be a cut.

--Elaine asked why the House's budget cuts left $3.6 billion in corporate welfare payments to oil and gas companies. Those companies are the most profitable around and they could pay for their own development.

Reed said that there are many problems and it's misleading to focus on oil and gas.

Asked by another if he thought that government workers were being painted with a wide brush Reed said, "Everyone is part of the issue."

He explained that Foreign Service workers can get a 24% relocation bonus if they have to move to Washington DC and he felt that was fair because it's expensive to live there but these workers hold onto that increase when they move out of DC. He'd like to change that.

He said that President Obama wants to freeze spending at the 2010 level but that the Bush budgets of 2009 and 2010 involved huge increases due to the TARP bailouts. He wants spending cut to a lower level but that all of these cuts should be seen as opportunities.

--Elizabeth asked if farm subsidies to large farms could be cut. Reed told her that he'd like to keep the EPA from regulating nitrates and phosphates in farm runoff.

The final discussion was on the switch from analog to digital television which has left people in the Southern Tier without TV signals. Reed said that he would look into the matter to understand it better. Citizens suggested that one of the Buffalo TV stations should be moved to Olean or Allegany County so residents could get their signals.

More than 45 freshmen and seniors enrolled in the electrical construction and maintenance electrician program at the School of Applied Technology have donated their Saturdays to rough wire the Comfort House of Allegany (Hart House) which is planned as a home to provide care and assistance to terminally ill residents and their families.

The home needs some renovation in order to accommodate two terminally ill patients at any one time. Hart House staff will provide 24-hour care and comfort for death with dignity.

The board of directors is committed to providing this end-oflife care as a not-for-profit corporation at no cost to individuals who are no longer able to reside in their own homes. However, renovations take time and money.

Through their donation of time and talent, ASC students have saved the Hart House from needing to hire electrical contractors, and within a very short time span (many hands make light work) the board of directors will be able to move on to the next step in the renovation: sheet rock. Then the ASC students will return to do the finish wiring.

Bill Wesche, former adjunct professor in the Electrician and Computer Technician Department at the college who now serves as an electrician on the Alfred campus, responded to Dave Porter's request for help, so, in conjunction with (and under the direction of) department chair Jim Jerla and faculty members Stephen Kielar, Dan Noyes, Calvin Odell, and Wesche, students have continued to rough wire the house.

Additionally, ASC faculty member Jon Perkins and two of his students from the computer and network technician curriculum have also volunteered their time and talent to install the data, networking, and communication equipment in the house.

Dave Porter, a member of the Hart House board of directors, who first approached Wesche, is thankful for the help. "The students have saved us time and money by volunteering their skills to our project, and we are very grateful."

Addressing NY's financial crisis

By DR. JOHN M. ANDERSON

President, Alfred State College

As New Yorkers, we continue to feel the painful fallout of New York's deep financial crisis. We know that tough measures will need to be taken to return the state to fiscal health. And so, I applaud Gov. Cuomo on his hard-hitting stance on the New York State budget.

However, the State University of New York (SUNY) in general, and Alfred State College, in particular, have suffered debilitating funding cuts of more than $619M over the past three years. Alfred State has weathered these cuts through careful foresight and management of resources and without loss of personnel. However, this most recent cut of $150M in Gov. Cuomo's budget makes it harder to maintain that equilibrium without our having to take more drastic measures. SUNY must be allowed to generate revenue through tuition increases, one of the few reliable methods available to it.

To that end, I wholeheartedly support SUNY Chancellor Nancy Zimpher's initiative for a five-year responsible, predictable, and fair tuition increase policy. This initiative would allow students and their families to predict with greater certainty their college expenses.

Over the last 48 years, SUNY has been allowed to raise tuition only 13 times. The smallest tuition increase was 7 percent ($310) in 2009-10. The highest increase was 43 percent ($650) in 1991-92. Seventeen times since 1963, a first-year student entered SUNY and during his or her college career never had to pay a tuition increase while others saw two or three increases. This inconsistency makes it not only unfair and difficult for students and families to plan, but creates almost insurmountable challenges for college administrators to plan and preserve quality programs and services.

Students across the SUNY system are in agreement with the Chancellor's plan as well, provided that the increase is used at their respective campuses, and not to help refill the state's empty coffers as was done in the past.

The New York State Legislature already has experience in long-range planning. With the approval of legislators, SUNY receives funding over a five-year period to maintain its facilities. This is a thoughtful approach to preserving the quality of our buildings and infrastructure. We ask the New York State Legislature to make the same commitment to our academic programs and services by implementing a rational five-year tuition increase plan. This would go a long way to ensure that SUNY and Alfred State can continue to provide the exceptional education they are known for. Please write, call, e-mail, or phone your local representatives and urge them to support a SUNY five-year rational tuition plan.

Government bailouts

Dear Editor,

Lately, we've been hearing from our new freshman Senators, as well as some of the old timers about the Federal Budget proposal. They often refer to the $800,000,000 stimulus as an example of out-of-control spendby the Obama ing administration. Also, they condemn the bailing out of the big three auto producers as the beginning of a socialist take over of the auto industry.

I wonder why we do not hear anything about the outcomes of these payments. Since the bailout, GM has purchased back from the government enough stock so that ate government no longer has a controlling interest in the company, and they have indicated their intent to continue to buy back the government's shares. Also, many of the banks that received government bailouts have paid, and are continuing to repay this money.

In light of all this, I have to wonder how much of that $800,000,000 is still outstanding, and why the total stimulus bill payments are still considered to be a contributing factor in our budget woes, and a waste of public funds.

The late Eugene T. Van Horn, who owned the newspaper from 1951 until 1973, told us one time that circulation peaked in the 1960s at 700. It's now over 900. We've added 108 new subscribers since Jan. 1, 2009.

Allegany County Legislator

OUR DYSFUNCTIONAL BUDGET PROCESS

Several weeks ago I wrote that I was willing to give our new Governor the benefit of the doubt regarding his efforts to change the way things are done in All-bany. It appears that the doubts were deserved, and the benefits were not. Things are as dysfunctional as ever. This does not bode well for our State or County.

Some of Governor Cuomo's actions and statements are hard to explain. He either isn't thinking, doesn't know the law, or he has chosen to ignore the law, or ignore common sense. He was State Attorney General before becoming Governor, so it is hard to believe that he doesn't know the law. That leaves only a few other explanations. Here are some examples of things he has proposed that don't make sense:

- He proposed a real property tax cap, but has not proposed any mandate relief for local governments. In reality he has proposed changes that will push State expenses down on local governments.
- In a recent letter to School Districts Governor Cuomo stated that schools should use "reserve funds" to make up for cuts in State Aid. However, the statutes governing reserve funds require that those funds be used only for the purpose for which they were established. It is a crime to use those funds for any other purpose. Is the Governor advising school officials to commit crimes? There are other problems related to reserve funds. Some schools have little or no money in such reserve funds. Suburban communities tend to be wealthier than city or rural communities. How do poor communities without reserves handle these cuts? The Governor ignores these differences.
- Governor Cuomo has urged communities to freeze wages for their employees. He ignores the fact that NYS municipalities are subject to the Taylor Law and don't have that option. The Governor has indicated that he may declare a state of emergency and impose a wage freeze on state employees. School Districts, counties, cities and towns don't have that option. Some experts question whether the Governor actually has authority to freeze wages. This advice may sound good, but it simply doesn't work.
- The same is true regarding the Governor's recommendation that municipalities "require" their employees to make the same contributions towards their health insurance as State employees are required to make. There is a major difference. State law requires many state employees to contribute 25% towards their health care coverage. Counties have asked the State to extend this requirement to their employees. The State has refused to do so. Perhaps the Governor is unaware of this difference. The bottom line is that he is urging us to do things that are prohibited by State law. How is that supposed to work?

Governor Cuomo appears to be more interested in holding press conferences and establishing task forces and commissions than doing the hard work of cutting off popular but unaffordable programs. He recently declared that he could balance the budget by cutting fraud, waste and inefficiency, without cutting any critical services or programs. That is wishful thinking. It represents more of the same thinking that got us into this financial mess.

We seem to be schizophrenic about government services. We oppose them in principle, but in practice we are addicted to them. Many people claim they want smaller government, but waffle when forced to discuss specific cuts. Everyone agrees we must eliminate fraud, waste and inefficiency. Very few are willing to actually eliminate services. This makes it hard to actually cut government spending. The truth is that we cannot afford all of the programs and services we have gotten used to. To cut spending we must bite the bullet, make hard choices, and cut some worthwhile programs. If we won't cut services and programs, we must raise taxes. Which will it be? The future is now. Get ready for some tough choices.

Connie Hamilton, Henry Robin to perform March 5

ANGELICA--Black-Eyed Susan Acoustic Café presents an evening of traditional acoustic folk, gospel, country and rhythm & blues music by CONNIE HAMILTON and HENRY ROBIN on Saturday, March 5.

Guitarist, pianist and singer CONNIE HAMILTON of Nunda grew up with classical music (her mother was a church organist, a proficient accompanist and music teacher). Then st-e-r-e-o hit her house and Judy Collins, Peter, Paul and Mary, Joan Baez, Roberta Flack, Cher and Julie Andrews became her

She taught herself how to play guitar so she could sing their wonderful songs. She's performed at many weddings, concerts and church functions, and piano for the Ossian Presbyterian Church where she just started a children's choir.

Guitarist and singer HENRY ROBIN of Dansville also grew up with music in the house. His mother loved hillbilly music and he recalls listening to Roger Miller and Hank Williams from an early age. His dad tuned in classical radio stations at night, and on Sundays there was plenty of church music to round things

As a young adult he listened to and played James Taylor, Neil Young, Dylan, Seeger and Guthrie. He studied classical guitar and classical music at Orange County Community College. He later turned to country music-Randy Travis, Clint Black, Vince Gill. He and his wife and four grown daughters sing together as often as possible. He enjoys performing in coffee houses, town gazebos and at church, and for a number of years he performed as a member of "Band of Brothers"

Together as CONNIE & HENRY they'll play two hours of acoustic music by a variety of artists in the folk, country, rhythm and blues and gospel

CONNIE & HENRY have performed during Acoustic Open Mic nights at Black-Eyed Susan, and were subsequently invited to present a full evening of music.

Connie said, "I've been performing on and off for 35 years, but pretty much set music aside to raise my family. Henry came along and, with prompting from God, I am back to singing like I used to."

Henry stated, "We've been playing together for about six months. I've never practiced so much or had this much fun with music!"

Proprietor Don Ash of Black-Eyed Susan remarks, "Connie and Henry are coming to Angelica to perform timeless songs most of us know well. But Henry is also a songwriter. We're hoping he'll dust off a few of his own songs. We can ask them to play a few of his!"

The doors at Black-Eyed Susan open at 11 a.m. every Saturday for lunch, switching to dinner at 4:30 p.m. Enjoy the mellow sounds of Jim Schwartz on guitar and vocals at 6 p.m., with CONNIE & HENRY beginning at 7:30 p.m. There is no cover charge, but guests are expected to contribute to the musician's tip jar. The kitchen is open on Saturdays until 10 p.m. and the café closes at 11 p.m. Reservations for dinner -- while never necessary -- are strongly encouraged.

Houghton College students to stage 'Father of the Bride' March 10-12

HOUHGTON--This spring Houghton College cordially invites you to their production of "Father of the Bride" by Caroline Francke.

The peaceful life of the Banks family is turned upside-down when their daughter Kay (Patricia Powles) announces her engagement one morning over breakfast. As Stanley Banks (Eric Mikols) struggles to accept that his only daughter is about to marry Buckley Dunstan (Chris Tortorello), a "goon with a pair of shoulders," the mounting bills and ever-expanding guest list begin to take their toll on not just him, but the happy couple as well.

Level-headed Mrs. Banks (Rachel Stowe) does her best to keep things afloat, but in the face of a frazzled secretary (Aubrey Thorlakson), an eccentric wedding planner (Hannah Lily) and two rowdy sons (Nate White & Nick Cannistaci) even she begins to crack.

Will the Banks Family be able to pull together in time to get Kay and Buckley down the aisle, or will the stress of the engagement be too much for the young couple?

Find out at 7 p.m. Thursday, Friday or Saturday March 10-12 (plus a 2 p.m. matinee on Saturday) in the Tysinger Auditorium of Houghton Academy (9790 Thayer Street, Houghton). # BB Shenanigans grabs a corner of Alfred's after-midnight munchie market

By DAVID L. SNYDER

Editor and Publisher

ALFRED--There's a new kid on the block catering to Alfred's college students with the aftermidnight munchies.

BB Shenanigans, which specializes in what can best be called "home-made fast food," opened Jan. 11 and is doing some brisk business between 1:30 and 3 a.m., particularly weekends.

You could say that Panda Chinese pretty much had the "corner on the market" of Alfred's aftermidnight munchie business. Located at the corner of North Main and Church Streets, Panda caters to college students looking for something to eat after a night on the town.

Now, at the other end of the block, which was cut short when fire Oct. 29, 2009 destroyed Alfred's oldest commercial building, BB Shenanigans offers Alfred an alternative to Chinese for those with the after-midnight munchies.

The restaurant's name depicts the personality of owner Blake Brown (BB), a Canisteo native and 2008 Canisteo-Greenwood Central School graduate, who his mother, Pam Brown, says has long been known for his shenanigans.

A member of Canisteo-Greenwood Central School's Class of 2008, Blake was asked by his parents what he wanted to do after he graduated from high school. Blake said he liked to cook and thought he would go to culinary school.

His parents told him there's no better way to learn than by doing and offered to help him start a restaurant, which they did in Canisteo a year ago. It was a hit in Canisteo and Blake thought his homestyle "fast food" cooking would please the palates of Alfred's late night crowd.

Operating at 7 N. Main Street, former home of Alfred's popular diner, the Collegiate Restaurant (now down the street at 31 N. Main Street), the eatery was renovated and remodeled by building owner Marc Rawady.

'He really did a great job," Brown said of the rehab job, "The place looks great."

After a couple months in business, Blake is real pleased with

"We get 100 to 200 hungry people in here between 1 and 3 a.m.," he told the Alfred Sun recently while preparing for the late night crowd.

Brown, operating the eatery in partnership with his mother, offers reasonably priced burgers, hot dogs, fries, subs, gyros and his own take on Rochester's original "garbage plate."

He calls it the "BB Plate" and it features a bed of French fries or homefries covered with either two hot dogs or hamburgers, smothered in a homemade meat sauce and a side of macaroni salad

While Brown is focused on establishing the new Alfred eatery, the Canisteo restaurant is temporarily closed

LANDSCAPES

I watched TV for hours on Super Bowl Sunday, February 6, 2011, but not that football game. Instead, I basked in reruns of British television productions of three Jane Austen novels, carried by PBS station WXXI in Rochester, New York.

During high school and often in college, I loyally attended "my" teams' football games semi-visibly played on a green field with white stripes. After those days my interest in personally witnessing the sport palled, giving way to preferences for other diversions.

About forty years ago Alfred University's Saxons football team had a highly successful season under Coach Alex Yunevich. A nondriving neighbor suggested that I should chauffeur us to Syracuse to see the team's final game. We could spend Saturday night with her daughter's family nearby. I readily adopted the idea.

At the stadium, we found the temperature in the bleachers was more chilling than the remote game was thrilling. We left at halftime for a side trip to Utica's Museum of Art at the Munson-Williams-Proctor Arts Institute. I was warmed immediately by viewing the four Thomas Cole paintings there called "The Voyage of Life." They depict a man in a boat at four ages, travelling the river of life surrounded by enchanting landscapes. The quartet was still fascinating during a recent visit.

Since I first saw Cole's works, accumulating years have moved me from one stage of life to another. The progression has led me through far more than four memorable vistas. Various stimuli awaken recollections.

Although I rarely watch a sporting event either live or on TV, I become readily engrossed in programs on PBS which are set in the British Isles. Locations in several cities are often personally familiar. Glimpses of rolling green meadows, hedges, mansions, formal gardens, village streets, stone churches, white cliffs, and seascapes evoke happy memories.

At an earlier stage I travelled several times in the British Isles, beginning in 1953. Later, riding a Lambretta motor scooter bought in London, I had my first extensive views of England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. One time I toured Ireland in a rental car. Two English librarian friends always took me on hikes during visits. I never mastered climbing a stile over a fence gracefully on those excursions. The TV actresses in 19th century dramas who do so in long skirts have my admiration.

All of these forays have left imprints of landscapes in my mind. Paintings, photographs, TV programs, and movies frequently revive visions. And so does music.

While living in Joplin, Missouri, around 1940 our family bought a spinet piano. My mother, sister, and I began taking lessons. Our teacher's first name was Alice, her surname escapes me. My mother had learned to play the violin as a child. Her mother asserted that she was to become a second Mischa Elman, a leading violinist of the day.

Although her violin had been lain aside for many years, her musical experience made our mother a quick learner on the piano. Soon she was playing duets with Alice.

One selection's title and melody put pictures in my childish imagination of places not yet seen. Composer Percy Grainger had based "Country Gardens" and several other pieces on English folk tunes. Born in Australia, Grainger was a world rover. Unbeknownst to me, when I first heard the duet he was living about seventy miles from us in Springfield, Missouri.

I have long collected used, but unscratched, 33 1/3 rpm phonograph recordings of classical music which appeals to me. To my frustration, I have mostly been unable to find records of works by British born composers. Stimulating one's imagination, their pieces can be like audible paintings. I am grateful to the foreigners who make up for it. Thank you Felix Mendelssohn, for your "Fingal's Cave," also known as "Hebrides," overture.

Fortunately, NPR stations broadcast my missing composers works so that I hear Ralph Vaughan Williams make "The Lark Ascending" become visible. Selections by Malcolm Arnold, Benjamin Britten, Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, Frederick Delius, Edward Elgar, and William Walton give life to scenes in the British Isles and other locales

On Super Bowl Sunday, I did catch snatches of a different bowl game. During WXXI TV station breaks for fundraising, I switched from Austen to "Puppy Bowl VII" on the Animal Planet channel. From my seat close to the screen, I could clearly see many fumbles on an indoor green surface with white stripes. I witnessed no concussive blows and beheld not a single loser.

This column by Martha "Matt" Mueller, an Alfred village resident and retired librarian, appears bi-weekly in The Alfred Sun.

BB Shenanigans was near capacity at 2:30 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 27. The eatery is located in the storefront previously occupied by the Collegiate Restaurant. (SUN Photo)

Unique 'Unfinished, Unframed, Unknown' exhibit in Andover

ANDOVER--The current ex- ing through Marion's work we hibit at the Artist Knot Gallery in Andover is not only one of the most unconventional, but also perhaps the most thought provoking to date. Twenty-one works by artist Marion M. Becker will be on display through March in an exhibit titled "Unfinished, unframed, unknown."

According to Gallery Director Amy Brown, "We acquired a collection of works by a deceased artist named Marion Becker. The portfolio was labeled 'Marion's paintings (unfinished).' At first we wondered what to do with a cache of unfinished work. The more we discussed it, the more we saw this as an opportunity to share with the general public a view into the artistic process."

Of the 21 paintings which were categorized as 'unfinished', most of them seem to have a completeness which might lead the viewer to wonder why they were labeled 'unfinished.' Perhaps Marion was dissatisfied with the potentially finished piece or unhappy with the direction it was going and therefore banned it to the realm of incompleteness, adding it to the unfinished pile. Out of all of the pieces only one might have a truly unfinished look. Even that painting seems able to stand on its own as a complete expression of Marion's creative process.

Another aspect of the exhibit which lends itself to the unfinished theme is the fact that all of the works are presented unframed.

Brown explains, "After look-discovered that many of the paintings had other paintings, or in some cases drawings, on the reverse side. Perhaps failed attempts, or false starts, or simply preparatory studies, the work on the backside reveals certain aspects of the creative process. If these paintings were framed, how would anyone ever know about this part of Marion's process?"

Accordingly, the gallery decided to present the works unin an archival framed, crystal-clear protective sleeve, indicating which paintings are two-sided so that the viewer can look at both sides. Although quality custom framing is one of the hallmarks of the AKG, and a critical part of the aesthetic package, Brown felt that presenting the works unframed, while losing a certain amount of visual appeal, was worth the trade off in so much that it allowed the viewer a more intimate experience with Marion's work and process.

Brown went on to explain that so often the average person only experiences the finished product of an artist. Yet with this exhibit, the viewer not only sees the product but also gets a glimpse into the process. Unerased pencil lines, partially developed glazes, and unremoved frisket are evidenced in various paint-

The third aspect of the exhibition title, "unknown", refers to the general anonymity surrounding the artist. As Director Brown explained, "Other than the name of the artist, we know virtually nothing about Marion. We've conducted extensive research and came up with nothing."

Brown went on to state that in many ways the exhibit is a tribute to the innumerable artists who end their lives unknown. For most in the art world, becoming 'known' is what it is all about. Yet Marion, and so many other competent and accomplished artists, end their days in obscurity.

In one sense, this exhibit is about Marion's process. Yet, in a greater sense this exhibit is a tribute to all of the artists that dedicate their lives to their art but receive little recognition; they remain unknown.

"Unfinished, unframed, unknown" can be experienced at the Artist Knot Gallery at 36 Main St in Andover, and will remain on view through March. The Gallery is open Tuesday-Saturday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., until 7 p.m. on Thursday, and by appointment.

Visit them at 36 Main St., Andover or on the web at www.artistknot.com, or contact directly at 607.478.5100. The Artist Knot Gallery is the only full-time, full-service fine art gallery in the Twin-Tier region.

CONCERNED CITIZENS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY OFFERS A RESOLUTION

We've been told before: 'people in Allegany County are like mushrooms - being kept in the dark and fed manure'.

We've been told that we should 'up our nuclear IQ'.
We did that. Then we demanded .... they 'up theirs'. Are we being kept in the dark again, this time about the consequences of horizontal drilling and hydrofracking?

And, do you know enough about the issue to decide for yourself whether or not it's dangerous? What information are you being fed?

The largest industry in the world -- the one that left its mark on Prince William Sound, Pennsylvania wells and the Gulf's Deepwater Horizon -- says that the planned drilling for New York's Marcellus is safe. They say it loudly and often.

http://www.opensecrets.org/lobby/top.php?indexType=i

New York has decided to protect drinking water for Syracuse and for NYC. Don't people in Allegany County drink water?

A year ago, our County representatives clearly stated their opinions and priorities in a Resolution (76-10) and associated comments.

http//www.alleganyco.com/meeting minutes/2010/Board/Mar22.htm

Around that same time the County's Energy & Resources AdHoc Committee made a Mission Statement which includes "work with stakeholders to identify issues, good and bad", and "attempt solutions to mitigate the bad and maximize the good".

http://www.alleganyco.com/meeting minutes/2010/EnergyAdHoc/Feb22.htm

And, in April, this same committee recommended that "a public education campaign be initiated utilizing all available local methods, so the public could make informed decisions". http://www.alleganyco.com/meeting minutes/2010/EnergyAdHoc/Apr26.htm

We can agree with the County on one point at least: We both say we want the best of health and livelihood for all present and future county residents.

But, between February (when the Mission Statement was made) and June of 2010, we saw the Ad Hoc Committee welcome guest speakers from the gas and oil industry, notably Robin Inwood and Art Van Tyne. The minutes refer to Mr. Van Tyne as a geologist, but he is more than that.

http://www.alleganyco.com/meeting minutes/2010/EnergyAdHoc/Apr26.htm http://www.alleganyco.com/meeting minutes/2010/EnergyAdHoc/Jun28.htm http://www.lynxenergypartners.com

Additionally, it looks like the County has been sending people to oil and gas industry sponsored "expos".

So, by June we decided to provide an alternative view, supported by historical evidence. Our focus was to be on the environmental and health damages, as well as on unique aspects of New York's geology and water systems.

Between August and October 2010 we made available to all County Legislators and all twenty nine Town Boards letters and videos stating our concerns and urging their involvement in civic education. It has been interesting to watch how those items were received. To follow-up, we did a phone survey of the town boards.

Stay tuned for results.

ALLEGANY TREASURES--Howard Coats stands open for business at Allegany Treasures, his new retail venue for the area's talented artists and artisans. The store is located at 44 Schuyler St. in Belmont, at the completely restored Belmont Hotel.

New store features treasures of Allegany County area artisans

BELMONT--The Fountain Arts Center is pleased to announce the opening of a new retail store for artists at its facility in Belmont.

"Allegany Treasures," at 44 Schuyler Street, features art and gift items crafted and created in the Allegany area. The store is under the management of Howard Coats. Inspired by the beauty of the area, Coats offers the regions' talented people a venue for selling their wares on a year-round basis.

Coats explained, "I have spent a great deal of time with artisans at craft fairs during the warm months, seeing the different arts and crafts that are unique to the area. It has inspired me to open a shop that would sell these fine wares year round, to help combat the difficulty some artisans face during the cold season. There are artists who already own shops and do well; however, there are others who only do craft shows. My idea is to create a shop that would display pieces from various artisans in one spot. Displays also include a short biography of the artists so customers know who they are and how to contact them."

Art Expose plans

HORNELL--The Hornell Area Arts Council is hosting an "Art Exposé" from 3 to 9 p.m. Saturday, April 23, at the Hornell Elks Lodge on Broadway, Hornell.

Come and view, appreciate, and purchase art from the area's finest artists. Painters, sculptors, woodworkers, photographers, and more!

Hors d'oeuvres, cash bar, no admission charge. Artists who would like to reserve space for just $20 may write for an application to 20 Broadway, Hornell, NY 14843 or e-mail: haac2008@gmail.com

Coats himself is a talented faux-finisher, and evidence of his work can be seen at his store. His wife Ruth also shows her skills in creating attractive displays for jewelry, pottery, sculpture, drawings, and paintings in the storefront.

Allegany Treasures is located at 44 Schuyler St. in the completely restored Belmont Hotel. It is adjacent to the Fountain Arts Center Gallery, Signs and Wonders Studio, and the Belmont Café.

Everyone is invited to shop locally, browse through the galleries, and enjoy a great beverage and meal. Allegany Treasures can be found on Facebook. For information, Howard Coats can be contacted at 585-455-0702 or alleganytreasures@yahoo.com.

Dean to oversee architecture interns

ALFRED-Alfred State College has announced the appointment of Professor William C. Dean, RA, AIA, as the Intern Development Program education coordinator for the architectural programs. Dean assumed this position Jan.1, 2011, in addition to his duties as chairman of the Department of Computer Imaging and Architectural Engineering Technology.

The Intern Development Program, or IDP, is a nationally recognized architectural internship program administered by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB). It is required for becoming an architect in New York State.

Educator coordinators are responsible for disseminating upto-date information on IDP to students and faculty at their school. Like the IDP state coordinators, these volunteers are informed on IDP by the National Chapter of the AIA on a daily basis and also communicate with the AIA, NCARB, and each other regularly. These individuals are also considered trusted sources of information on IDP and are funded to attend the annual IDP Coordinators Conference.

Of his new position, Dean says, "I am thrilled to be serving in this role and to be assisting what I have already found to be an incredibly active, dynamic, and engaged group of students and faculty."

Dean holds both a March and a BPS in architecture from the University at Buffalo and an AAS in architectural technology from Alfred State College. He is a registered architect and member of American Institute of Architects

AU prof has work exhibited in NYC

ALFRED-Peer Bode, professor of video art at the School of Art & Design at Alfred University, is one of five artists whose work is included in an exhibition at the Nicole Klagsbrun Gallery in New York City.

The exhibition opened Feb. 24, with a reception held Friday, Feb. 25 at the galley, 526 W. 26th St, No. 213, New York, NY. It will remain open through April 9

According to a release from the gallery, "Working in distinct idioms, the artists in the exhibition explore the dynamic potential of what Jan Verwoert has termed the 'conceptual gesture.' Reflective of and reacting to their spatial and historical context, each work reverberates between being and place."

In his videos, Bode "re-engineers familiar technologies to ... investigate and collapse his medium," the release says. "Manipulating sound and image to reveal the dependence of sonic and visual information on moving parts, these elements are often interlaced and overlapped to obliterate one's primacy over the other."

A member of the Alfred University faculty since 1993, Bode exhibits his work nationally and internationally, and his media works are included in collections worldwide. He is among the artists featured in "A Survey of American Video Art – The First Decade," a project of Chicago's Video Data Bank, curated by Chris Hill.

He has collaborated on numerous electronic tool-building projects with video systems designer David Jones and artist Ralph Hocking. He is a member of the "Carrier Band" with Pauline Oliveros and Andrew Deutsch, also a member of the faculty in the School of Art & Design.

Bode is co-founder and co-director of the Institute for Electronic Arts (IEA) at Alfred University. He produces work at the IEA, at the Experimental Television Center in Owego, NY, where he has been an artist-in-residence as well as a member of the staff, and at Pep Studios, with locations in Hornell and Rochester. Bode earned a B.A. degree in cinema from Binghamton University, and a master's in video from the Center for Media Studies at the University of Buffalo.

Alfred Sta. youth will participate in 30-Hour Famine

ALFRED STATION--Every day, nearly 8,000 kids under age 5 die because of hunger-related causes. Some starve. Some get sick — and their hungry bodies are just too weak to fight.

And that's not the half of it. In all, more than 24,000 kids lose their lives each day, most of them to poverty, disease, and, yes...hunger. The biggest tragedy? Almost all of these deaths are absolutely, 100% pre-

There's enough food in the world. There are enough resources and know-how. There are enough of us who can raise our voices to fight hunger. The question is: Will we?

Every year, World Vision distributes enough emergency food to fill 8,000 semi-trucks. We help families grow more of their own food and store it longer. We defend the rights of the poor to those in power and challenge global leaders to tackle the causes of hunger.But we can't do all this without you.

These hunger facts come from the World Vision Web-Site http://30hourfamine.org/hunger/ hunger-facts . On Sabbath (Sat.) March 12 through Sunday March 13 youth connected with the Youth Fellowship and Jr. Youth Fellowship at the Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church will participate in World Vision's Annual 30 Hour Famine

The 30-Hour Famine is a time when youth personally commit themselves to abstain from food, become participants in learning the facts of being oppressed by hunger, and becoming agents of changing their world. We are asking that you join in this once a year effort.

There are three ways that you might consider being a participant: (1) Stop eating at 9 am March 12 and don't break your fast until 4 pm March 13; (2) Count your blessings (3) Send a monetary donation for World Vision 30 hour Famine to help sponsor these youth. You may send the donation to the Alfred Station Seventh Day Baptist Church at P.O. Box 7777 Alfred Station NY 14803.

All funds will be sent to World Vision 30 Hour Famine Project. This year's funds will be going to help the people of Haiti. For further information call the church office at 607-587-9176.

HITS AND MISSES:

Starting out this week with the saddest news I have had to report in quite awhile in this space as Lyle "Gervin" Cook passed away on Sunday, February the 27th after a battle with cancer. My deepest and sincere thoughts go out to his wife, Diane and their children, Emily and Ben. Lyle's father ... Walt, his brother ... Dan and the rest of the Cook family. A great guy, an A-A Hall of Famer and a friend. Lyle had many friends, perhaps none better than Mark S. Gaisser who was at his side right up to the final day. Gerv ... rest in peace.

Former Alfred State College women's basketball coach, Joe Q. French and his UMBC softball troops started off the 2011 campaign with a (1-4) mark after playing games at Florida Gulf Coast University. "Qua," who also coached hoops-softball at SUNY Geneseo, and his Retrievers are set to play a host of tournaments with home events on the schedule next.

Alfred-Almond grad, Skip Sherman and his Genesee CC baseball team open play this weekend in Dayton, Ohio with "double dippers" on Saturday and Sunday. After that GCC is off to Florida from the 15th thru the 21st, in the Tampa area and other locations. A St. Patrick's Day/nite contest with the University of Tampa JV's high-

Tim Mead's (Andover) Walsh University baseball team is off to a solid (3-1) beginning after taking wins over Shawnee State and Fisher College. The Cavs will be in Florida for a week starting March 6th. (Not sure how Mead deals with this "job?")

Coach Rob Kornaker's (AU) SJ Fisher men's basketball team stunned #1-seeded Ithaca in the semi-finals of the E8 conference tournament before falling in the title game to Hartwick. Was second-straight championship loss for SJF. Hartwick upset Stevens in their semi-final game and now are off to the NCAA's. Guessing Ithaca will get an at-large bid to the Division III tournament. The Fisher Cardinals off to the ECAC's.

Alfred State College Hall of Famer, Tom Curle and his Plattsburgh men's squad lost in the semi-finals of the SUNYAC tournament to top-seeded Oswego. Curle's Cardinals (17-10) will get an ECAC nod as well. Tom Spanbauer's Cortland team (10-16) fell in the SUNYAC quarter-finals to Buffalo State.

In American Mideast Conference men's hoop action it was Cedarville topping Roberts Wesleyan in the semi-finals, 71-69. A-A Hall of Famer, Andy Allgrim is an assistant coach with Cedarville ... the Yellowjackets, I believe. An Ohio school. Same conference as Walsh, Houghton, others.

The St. Bonaventure men's basketball program is now (15-12) on the year after dropping a game to St. Joe's, 79-65.

Marion topped Canisteo-Greenwood in girls sectional action, 66-52 in semi-final play at HF-L. Raegan Ryan finished out her stellar career with 31-points in defeat. She will be off to Cedarville (OH) in the fall to play hoops!

In boys sectional basketball it was Wellsville advancing in B2 over LeRoy, Finney demolishing Arkport in D1 ... ouch, Batavia ND stopping Avoca after Avoca had beat A-A and Wayland-Cohocton beat NE/NW College Prep. Huh?

A bunch of NYS vanity plates: FANTASTK, RATLOVER ... what?, HEAT INC ... losing to the "new" Knicks (sorry, "Lefty"), GR8PANES ... teacher Doris, LOL WAGN ... Frank's car and BIG-OTON ... Houben's car.

The Rochester Knighthawks (5-4) beat Edmonton, 13-9 in NLL pro indoor lax action.

Karrie Webb won the LPGA event in Singapore. More LPGA events away from the United States than in the USA!

It apparently wasn't the greatest of Super Bowl trips for the "Traveling Sports Fan" to Dallas.

Had a surprise (laundry) visit from my daughter, Lauren on Saturday past. "Dad ... just have a few loads of laundry, and then we can get the oil changed in my car, and go see a movie while that is being done and then go out to dinner afterwards!" Great having her home for the day ... ???

Very special birthday greetings to 3L this week and to her SUNY Geneseo soccer teammate, Rian Jock!

Next week: an interview with Walsh Cavs baseball coach, Tim
