Local Author Visit and Reading: Megan Staffel

Tuesday, May 4 at 7 p.m.

Nancy Howe Auditorium at the David A. Howe Public Library, 155 N. Main St., Wellsville

Fiction writer Megan Staffel will be reading a story from her new collection of short fiction, "Lessons in Another Language." Like her last novel, set in the imaginary town of Paris, NY, many of the stories in this collection are located in the Southern Tier. Staffel's stories are exquisite, gripping observations of lives humbled by the power of the rural landscape that surrounds them, of people haunted by the enormity of their longings.

Her previous work includes the novels, "The Notebook of Lost Things" and "She Wanted Something Else," and the story collection, "A Length of Wire."

A longtime resident of Alfred, Staffel divides her time between writing and teaching. Books will be available for purchase and signing.

This library-sponsored program is free and open to everyone.

Pen Pals Wanted for New Initiative

A new student-initiated program is seeking 150 college students to become pen-pals with children from the Equality Charter School in the Bronx. The program is intended to raise awareness of campus life so that children can better imagine themselves attending college after high school.

Maimunatu Mohammed, a junior marketing major, developed the program after performing an art residency at the Equality Charter School in October 2009. Her desire is to build a stronger relationship between Alfred University and what she calls their new "little sister school."

"When I was their age, I wish I had some positive influence to motivate me towards college," says Mohammed, who grew up in the Bronx. "The idea of attending a university in rural western New York was about as relatable as going to school on the other side of the planet. This is just about planting a seed in their minds about college opportunities."

University students interested will be asked to commit to writing one letter per semester until they graduate. Specific instructions and tips are attached and final submissions can be sent to Maimunatu Mohammed at mbm1@alfred.edu or sent to Powell Box 1159. The letters are due by Monday, May 10, 2010.

French Speaking Africa Fall 2010

French Speaking Africa

This course is an introduction to the cultures and literature of French-speaking Africa with readings and discussions of works by contemporary Francophone African writers and poets, also using films to supplement the readings. This is an elective for the major and minor in French as well as Global Studies. It also fulfills the Global Perspectives Gen Ed requirement. It is only offered once in a while, so this will probably be a good chance for your students to take. Among the topics discussed in this course will be: art, history, politics, gender, religion, culture, rites of passage, rituals, and music. We often invite guest speakers who teach an African course or who lived in Africa. The course will offer the student a cultural exposure, raise their awareness, and broaden their knowledge of a non-western world.

The course will be taught in English by a native francophone African who will bring her own personal experience and perspectives to share with the class.

Tips: Pen Pals

TIPS AND INSTRUCTIONS

Alfred University is partnering with Equality Charter School of the Bronx.

- * We are seeking 150 AU Students to write to 150 6th & 7th grade students
- * AU and ECS will mail all letters together back-and-forth
- * For confidentiality, both writers should only include first name and their last initial.
- * No e-mail, phone numbers, addresses, or last names should be exchanged.
- * Our goal is to inform junior high children about the possibilities of college. By making them aware of your experience, they can imagine themselves attending college.
- * Another goal is to give both writers exposure to the fun and skill involved in letter writing.
- * AU students will write just one letter per semester - and please e-mail or give to Maimunatu Mohammed at PCC 1159.
- * We are seeking AU juniors, sophomores, and first-years who can keep writing into next year.

Sample letter:

Dear ECS Pen-Pal, (Note: the first letter we won't put a specific kid's name because the school will distribute)

My name is Mimi. I am a 21-year-old girl and go to Alfred University. I am studying Marketing and my dream job is to work for a company and make a lot of money.

My favorite food is called fufu, which is an African-food. I was born in the United States but raised (from 3-9 years old) in Ghana, which is a country in Africa. Fufu is made out of plantains - which are smashed and mixed into a dough - and then dipped in soup.

I like to dance and I started my own dance team at Alfred University. My favorite cartoon is the Fairly Odd Parents and my favorite book growing up was called MAUS which is a graphic novel (comic book) about Jewish experiences during the Holocaust.

I look forward to hearing about you, so please write back and give your teacher the letter. I'll write back in the Fall and share my summer adventures. You have a great summer too.
