

Kenneth Goss To Head Senate; Campus Officers, NSO Committee Elected

Poor Percentage Of Students Take Part In All-Campus Voting; Edwin Gere To Be New Senior President

"I appreciate the response and hope that I may fulfill the expectations of the campus," Kenneth Goss '48, said Thursday night upon being notified that he had won all campus elections for presidency of Student Senate.

Despite Goss' appreciation of the response, however, only 571 students voted out of approximately 1300. Victory for Goss was by a mere 50 votes.

Elections for vice president of the Senate will be held next week, probably at the Campus Union. Probably all sophomore and junior members of the Senate will be eligible. Election of secretary and treasurer of the Senate will be by members of the Senate at their first meeting.

In other elections, Dr. Murray J. Rice was selected to be faculty member of the Campus Union Board. Student members are Paul Baker AT, Suzi Rhodes '50 and Katherine Rigas '50 from the Liberal Arts College and Edwin Lorey '48 from the Ceramic College.

Joan Baird, David Guillaume and William O'Connor were chosen to represent the campus on the National Student Organization committee.

Craft Students Plan Future Activities

At a special meeting of the Student Council of the School for American Craftsmen, May 6, presided over by newly elected officers, program for future activities was presented.

The new officers are: President, Lou Yaffee; vice-president, Evelyn Giddings; secretary, Sarol Thompson; treasurer, Anthony LaRocco; senate representatives, Katherine Bascom and Lorna Pearson.

Among the activities planned are a ping pong and cribbage tournament, held simultaneously starting May 13 and ending May 20, at which time prizes will be awarded and a buffet dinner served. A picnic will be held in the near future and a softball team may be organized.

Some of the serious business transacted was the adoption of a plan to maintain a permanent record of graduates of the school. A historian was appointed to keep a record of all activities of the Council.

Paul C. Saunders Takes Demonstration To Schools

Dr. Paul C. Saunders, Chemistry Department head, demonstrated liquid oxygen, Thursday and Friday, May 8 and 9, in Fulton High School, Old Forge High School and New Hartford High School. Saturday night, May 10, Dr. and Mrs. Saunders were guest speakers at the Washington, D. C., Alfred Alumni dinner.

Dr. Saunders has given about 25 liquid air demonstrations the past winter before high schools and service clubs.

Alfred Ranks In Top Fourth Of Nations Schools

Alfred University still ranks in the upper fourth of American colleges and universities participating in American Council of Education aptitude tests given to all freshmen, Dr. Thomas A. Hall, associate professor of psychology, announced this week.

Results of this year's testing shows that Alfred students registered a percentile of 61, higher than last year's 57, to rank 43rd among 253 institutions entered, said Dr. Hall, who directed the tests when they were given last fall.

Alfred has ranked higher in the past—it held a 35 position among 282 colleges two years ago with a percentile rating of 63 and a gross score of 116.48, but increased enrollment has worked to hold its position down.

Gross score this year registered by the entire freshman class of 350 was 110.06 while last year's gross score was 106.41. All incoming freshmen are required to take the test.

The tests, not an intelligence quotient test, are used to determine a student's aptitudes. Aptitudes are not to be confused with abilities, but rather potential abilities.

"These represent a small but consistently good difference between Alfred and other colleges. We can afford to feel gratified as long as we don't get complacent," Dr. Hall said.

Examination Notice

Due to the difficulty in making final examination schedule to fit into six days and the necessity of having senior grades in the Registrar's Office not later than Tuesday, June 10th at 5:00 P.M., it has been decided to eliminate the Review days and start final examinations on Wednesday, June 4th.

Lab. Annex To Be Used In Two Weeks

Allen Laboratory Annex is nearing completion and will be occupied by the biology and chemistry departments within the next two weeks, it was announced this week.

The annex is composed of two buildings, 24 x 100 feet, constructed by the State Housing authority, approximately 20 feet from Allen Lab, and connected to the main building by a corridor.

One half of the building is divided into three well-lighted, well-ventilated labs. These are to be used by the biology and chemistry departments, and will offer a decided improvement upon existing facilities.

Two class rooms, a storage room, and an office compose the remainder of the building. The storage room will be used by the biology department for supplies. At present there is no adequate storage space available for this purpose. The office is piped for hot and cold running water and for gas. It will be used by Prof. C. E. Packard for his biological writings and research.

The animal house, containing mice, rabbits, and guinea pigs used for biological studies, has been moved closer to Allen Lab, and expanded.

Present facilities of Allen Lab consist of: a laboratory and lecture room on the first floor, two chemistry labs and a supply room on the second floor and a biology lab and a classroom in the attic.

Miss Geen went on to point out that "we are skating dangerously low to the minimum number of days the State requires. Therefore, the students should take it upon themselves to take this extra half-day of school, if possible."

Plans are definite for both the clean up and moving up portions of the program. For the first time, the day has been made a full day holiday. Whether or not a similar plan is followed next year depends upon the success this year.

In addition to clean up assignments made last week, the School for American Craftsmen will take part in the activities by working around their area. William Parry '47 will represent the Blue Key with them.

Blue Key President Walter Lawrence '47 announced that no cars should be parked in the lot above The Men's Gym, Wednesday, because of the work which is going to be done there by the Bartlett-Brick group.

Moving up day activities will commence with assembly at 1:15 p. m. At this time Douglas Case '47 will turn over the Senior Cane to Edwin Gere '48 and Blue Key and other honorary organizations will tap their new men.

The step-singing contest will take place at 2:30 p.m. on Kenyon Hall steps. Judges will be Dean Elizabeth Geen, Prof William Fiedler and Dean Brinton H. Stone.

Sports events of the day begin at 3:30 p.m. with a pushball contest between freshman and sophomore men at the practice field. At 4:30 girls from those classes will have their annual softball game.

Festivities will close with a street dance on Main Street in front of the post office. Admission is free and music will be furnished by the Palmer Sound System. There will be 12 o'clock permission for all women.

Goss And Campus Unite

Congratulations, Kenneth Goss, on your election as Student Senate President for 1947-48. The majority of students on campus have elected you and will stand behind you during coming year if you make the Senate all that you have promised—a strong and active Senate.

“Putting Alfred on the map” is a pat phrase. Let’s do something about it. We want to be proud of our Alma Mater and also we want outsiders to know the reasons why. Such plans as publicizing the football team and putting up directional signs are good.

There have been many comments on the need for a college band. The Senate should take responsibility for making the proposed band an actuality.

President Goss, you would have “the student body at Alfred less the governed and more the self-governors.” This means clarification of the cutting system.

In general, we call for a Senate which will adequately represent all students on campus and which will get results. We call for a vital force on campus, not a discussion group with power in name only.

We, the student body, must share your responsibility, too, for one man can’t do the job alone. If the Senate is to secure more privileges for the students, the students must use these privileges wisely. If the Senate is to be active and effective, the students must help make it so. It’s a job for all.

Tennis Racket

It’s Spring, and it’s tennis weather. You can hear cries of “Love-fifteen, love-thirty” almost any time of day on the courts, but often these cries are drowned out by the sighs of those waiting for a chance to play.

We have two usable courts, which will handle at the most eight people at one time. Ten or fifteen fans are usually lining the courts waiting their turn. A third court, a clay one, is absolutely useless as it is now, but it would take relatively little work to put it in top condition. The reconstruction of this court would partly remedy the situation, but there is enough interest in the sport to warrant the building of two or three additional courts.

When the two courts we do have are always in use, beginners are discouraged and those who know the game are disgusted. The formation of the tennis team this year indicates that there is a good deal of interest on campus. This interest should be fostered. Who knows? Maybe Alfred could turn out another Don Budge or Alice Marble.

The Case Of The Run-Away Ferryboat

By Robert Roderick

Ferryboat 689, of the Nyak and On-enta Railway Company, had plodded back and forth across the Hudson River between Hoboken and 23rd Street for twenty years. It wasn’t a bad ferryboat, mind you, but it was sick and tired of the rut it was in.

Surely it had been amply cared for by the railway company. Each year a bright green coat of paint was applied in the spring, when its engines were overhauled. It always had plenty to drink and plenty to burn. But this year it had spring fever.

As it lay tied up to the pier on the New York side, it watched the ocean liners slide by. They would stare down their smokestacks at the ferryboat and toot with a superior air.

“Still stuck in this hole?” they sighed. “We have been out with the whales and flying fish—out in the heart of the sea, where the phosphorous sparkles like a million gems, and the fresh ocean breeze sends a thrill of joy through our whole bulkhead! Our lighthouses have been in heaven—we didn’t set our courses by the Empire State Building or a neon sign advertising Colgate Shaving Cream!”

Today ferryboat 689 heaved in its berth and was too deeply grieved to return the greeting of a tugboat en route from the Battery to Rye Beach, which always spoke. A friendly petrel, who was accustomed to perch on the stack of the ferryboat and exchange gossip, sensed that something was wrong.

“What goes, 689?”

“Aw, I got itching props, and no place to go!”

“Hmmm,” said the petrel.

Of course none of the passengers noticed anything amiss. There was a sailor who had long since left the sea to sit behind an adding machine, and who, it cannot be denied, often had much cause for regret. He stood on the top deck watching a Cunard liner get underway for Le Havre. All he could do was blow his nose sadly and remark: “Someday when I get enough money, I’ll get back out there!”

Close by stood a newly-married couple, who were on their way to a week-end at Asbury Park, which was all they could afford. How they wished they were outward bound on a honeymoon aboard the Cunard liner!

There was an organ grinder, who had come from Genoa years ago, and who had found his future at the Jersey City end of the rainbow near Journal Square.

Finally, there was elderly Mrs. Zimmerman, a pleasant-faced, dreamy woman who had read Moby Dick and a little Conrad. She had been so thrilled by these stories of the sea that once a week she left her job of making meat pies in the Automat and rode all afternoon on the Hudson River ferry. “Someday,” she said, looking at the ocean liner, “I will make enough meat pies, and then I will be able to take a ride to Bear Mountain. I’m sure I won’t get seasick. Never did when I read the books.”

“I’m beginning to feel like a machine,” cursed the ferryboat captain, switching the controls to the opposite end. “Sixteen round trips a day, and I never get anywhere!” He was a peculiar ferryboat captain, indeed, for he did not like to chew tobacco. He liked bubble gum much better.

Raving Reporter

What do you consider an ideal campus date?

June Minnick—I think a campus date is more enjoyable when it is a double date. Going to a movie and then enjoying a game of bridge is a pleasant way of spending an evening. The man doesn’t have to spend a lot of money to insure a good time.

Clare Richeson—Bill.

Florence Anderson—Just going anywhere and doing anything with someone you like.

Joan Hatfield—Some fellow who can talk sincerely, but who also has a good sense of humor. Money isn’t important.

Kay Rigas—Going someplace with someone that likes the same things I do. I like the boy to be courteous and to have a sense of humor.

Bernice Garber—Anyone with a million dollars unless he is over 5 ft. 2 in., wears glasses and smokes a pipe.

A bell clanged on the 23rd St. pier, the gates were closed, and the ferryboat got underway. The captain blew the whistle, and the 689 responded weakly. Out into the river swung the boat, heading downstream.

“By golly!” sighed the captain. “What a lovely day to be on the open sea!” He remembered when he had been skipper aboard a freighter running between Panama and San Diego. Then he got too old (so they said). “I wish—but what’s the use!”

No one will be particularly surprised in discovering that 689’s rudder stuck, and that it loosened up at convenient times, so it could swing around the Battery and out past the Jersey Coast. It was inevitable. The petrel perched on the stack was an excellent pilot, and had, in fact, made his stripes due to a superior talent at celestial navigation.

The organ grinder began to play, the lovers held hands, and Mrs. Murphy got out some of her meat pies and passed them around. The old sailor went up on the bridge with the captain, and they chewed bubble gum and swapped sea stories. Of course they should have been stopped by the harbor police, or the Coast Guard, but we will not burden ourselves with the grim realities of life.

689 pitched out in the open sea, a school of porpoises dancing around it, and a sweet ocean breeze blowing across the decks. The water became clear and sparkling, and all the smoke and skyscrapers vanished below the horizon.

Late that evening, ferryboat 689 tied up at Hoboken, a happier and less-frustrated ship.

“It’s been a lovely voyage,” said Mrs. Zimmerman, brushing a meat pie crumb off her dress. “Now I know what Conrad meant!”

“We’ve had a wonderful honeymoon, and the music was grand!”

“It is a musician’s dream to play to such an appreciative audience. The meat pies were delicious!” smiled the organ grinder.

When the captain and the old sailor came down, Mrs. Zimmerman gave each of them one of her address lists. “We want to keep in touch. Maybe we can take another trip sometime!”

The ferrymaster, who had just come aboard, watched the happy people shaking hands and embracing.

“What’s going on here?” he asked. “Rudder stuck,” said the captain, blowing a bubble.

“Better get it fixed,” the ferrymaster ordered. “We’re taking the 689 out of service next month, anyway. Gonna convert her into a barge, and run her up and down the Jersey Coast. Hope we can find someone to command her. Not many captains care for that sort of duty.”

“I know one who does,” smiled the captain, and he tucked Mrs. Zimmerman’s address list in a safe place and went home whistling. —R.R.

Ag-Tech Sponsors All-Campus Dance

First big all-campus Ag-Tech Spring Dance, Saturday night, turned out to be one of the dance sensations of the year, and already discussion has started about a “bigger and better” dance next year.

Novel decorations included white glass curtains bedecked with glittering flowers and butterflies and a fountain showering red, blue, green and amber water transformed the Men’s Gym into a spring garden. Al Cecchi and orchestra, styled after Glenn Miller’s music, completed the picture.

Besides unusual decorations and excellent band, a third big feature of the dance was the gardenia corsages and daisy boutonnieres given the guests at the door. Instead of the usual dance programs, which fellows forget to return, favors that the girls could keep were included in the admission. These were necklaces with an Ag-Tech pendant.

Another big added attraction of the dance was the Grand March just before intermission. The March, led by the dance chairman Annette Argana and her escort Seigfried Wuerslin, was directed by Reni Coates. When he led the dancers “about as far as he could go” and everyone was “in a pickle now,” Reni solved his problem by having Annette and Seig start a conga line that wound around the fountain.

Committee consisted of Louise Penelope, co-chairman; refreshments, Thelma Ashton and the Kappa Delta girls; cloakroom, Marjorie Everman and the Wheaton House girls; favors, Phyllis Schultz and the Henderson House girls; decorations, Siegfried Wuerslin and Theta Gamma fraternity; advertising, Donald Jonas and Reni Coates; tickets, Charles Raymond and Joyce Ethridge.

Chaperones included President and Mrs. J. E. Walters, Director and Mrs. P. B. Orris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hinkle and Mrs. and Mrs. Stopper.

Letter To The Editor—

Dear Editor;

So far as we know now, no furniture has been provided for the Campus Union Annex. You know and I know that upended orange crates will be inadequate. Why doesn’t some class or organization sponsor a new car raffle? Chances are good for making $300—an amount sufficient for starting a furniture fund—and maybe someone from Alfred would win the car. Doubtlessly the University administration would gladly lend support.

Senior Accepts Fellowship For Religious Training

Roberta Wells has accepted the Danforth Fellowship which she won after competing with applicants from leading Eastern Women’s colleges. This Fellowship, given to selected seniors upon graduation, trains them in a summer camp in Michigan to become religious workers. On completion of training the workers are placed on campuses throughout the United States to organize young people’s groups and represent the Student Christian Movement.

Dance Artist

Jose Limon

Forum Artist Exhibits “The Story of Mankind”

“The Story of Mankind,” one of the acts Jose Limon’s company will present during the Arts Festival, is a cartoon comedy, and according to Frances Herridge of PM, “a mock-epic of the domestic progress or rather lack of progress over the ages.” Walter Terry, New York Herald Tribune, states, “It shows how man has built increasingly better houses, has improved his decor and has builded up a list of creature comforts, but he has failed to build himself.”

John Martin of the New York Times, foremost dance critic, says, “It is both hilarious and underlyingly serious, and...it is wonderful fun. Under its foolish exterior, however, it contains disturbing comment.”

Mr. Limon will also perform “Chaconne in D minor” (Bach-Busoni) and “Concerto in D Minor” (Vivaldi-Bach). Frances Herridge says that the “Chaconne” has “restrained strength” and “bold originality,” and the “Concerto” shows “superb molding of group design.” “ ‘Chaconne’ is a dance of elegance and strength,” according to Mr. Terry, and he continues, “ ‘Concerto’ was completely charming and as classic and lively as anything the traditional ballet ever produced.” Mr. Limon will give a solo performance in “Chaconne” and in “Concerto” he will be assisted by guest artist Beatrice Seckler and by Miriam Pandor.

Another feature of the program will be “Day on Earth,” a sonata by the well-known composer Aaron Copeland, which was presented for the first time on May 8 in Boston. In “Day on Earth” Mr. Limon will be assisted by Letitia Ide, Miriam Pandor, and Melisa Nicolaides. Choreography for “Day on Earth” and “The Story of Mankind” was done by Doris Humphrey, a key figure in the world of dance. Mr. Martin of the New York Times states that “she is certainly the greatest of our choreographers.” Frances Herridge says, “Doris Humphrey’s dances...are indelibly remembered for their dramatic content.”

Four Professors Represent Alfred

Four members of the Alfred Mathematics Department, Dr. Lowenstein, chairman, Professors Polan, Nevins, and Freund, attended the meeting of the Upper New York Section of the Mathematical Association of America held in Rochester on Saturday. Representatives of fifteen colleges were in attendance.

At a panel discussion on “Some problems relating to mathematics in N. Y. colleges,” the need for a terminal course for those students of the Liberal Arts Colleges who do not plan to make professional use of mathematics was emphasized. The assertion was made that none of the colleges represented offered such a course. Dr. Lowenstein pointed out that the Alfred department has been teaching such a course, Fundamentals of Mathematics, for the past six years, the course growing from some ten students in 1941 to three sections this year.

Dr. Seidlin of the Education Department attended the afternoon session.

Collidge Town

By Marbledome

Due to Muddlehead’s desire to put as much distance as possible between himself and Prexy’s pool, the column this week will be written by his stupid brother Marbledome. If you think Muddlehead was lacking the necessary grey matter, you should see his brother. Take a look at the heading, the stupe doesn’t even know how to spell COLLIGE, he thinks there should be a d in it.

Sensation of the Week—the super dance held by the Ag-Tech Saturday night. Lots of couples having lots of fun—Shirley & Gail, Julian & Cliff, Mary Louise & Earl, Olly & Bob, Annette & Sig, Carol & Hat, Shirley & Ernie and others too numerous to mention.

The decorations were a real success, thanks to Sig Wuerslin and the rest of the Ag-Tech boys. I was really impressed by the fountain. I had heard rumors that it was going to spout champagne so I tested it three times—had to be safe—the first two times they might have had the chasers turned on. Manager Annette did herself proud but what was most amazing, the Kappa Delta boys in the cloak room (contrary to their usual Saturday night bemusement) managed to keep everybody’s coats in the proper places. I’ll believe anything now.

The conga dance was something. They went into it with such enthusiasm that I became worried, went out and borrowed a catcher’s mitt just in case some interesting hip became disengaged and went flying by. The sensation on the dance floor was Mike Orzano—such exercise. Speaking of exercise, I am getting in shape myself for the rumored Alfred pin ball team next year, but I’m breaking into this exercise racket slowly. I am taking in all the local movie mysteries so that my flesh will creep.

O’Malley (earlier in the year going out for the shot put) to the coach:

“Throw it, h- , all I thought you had to do was lift it.”

Foul up of the week—Lynn Roberts invites a guest to Theta Chi, takes her coat and puts it safely away. An hour later—no coat—so Lynn takes her own, gives it to the guest and escorts her out the door into a mud puddle. The mystery was finally solved when Jack Guinan mentioned casually that he had seen the dry cleaner walking out with a black coat under his arm. Such hospitality!

Flash! Muddlehead’s new, old car was seen zipping over the Pennsylvania state line at the tremendous speed of eighteen miles per hour. I guess he wasn’t kidding when he said he was getting as far from Prexy’s pool as he could. Pennsylvania state police have been alerted and all the inhabitants of the route that he is expected to travel have been warned to move their houses at least three hundred yards back from the road.

AVC Favors State University And NSO

Members of the Alfred chapter of the American Veterans Committee went on record in favor of two measures this week, the Mahoney-Steingut Bill for a state university and the National Students Organization. The group unanimously went on record in favor of NSO.

Concerning the Mahoney - Steingut Bill, the AVC urges support of all students and suggests that a card or letter be addressed to the Committee on Finance, The Senate, Albany 1.

During the discussion, it was brought out that the bill would establish a university in the department of education to be known as New York State University. It would be composed of a college of arts and science, schools of engineering, medicine, dentistry, law and such other colleges and professional schools as the regents deem necessary.

Next meeting of the AVC will be at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 14 in Room 3 of Green Hall.

Seniors Sign Contracts For Teaching Positions

Some members of the Education Department have signed contracts to teach in schools in this area, according to Dr. Joseph Seidlin, department head.

Robert Anderson will teach social studies at Roessleville; John Ledin will teach social studies at Avon and his wife will instruct in commercial work there. Jeannette Carlanzo will teach social studies at Allentown; Molly White, English at Canistota; George Valentine, social studies at Greenwood; and Shirley Lane, English at Waterloo. Other contracts for students are pending.

Cortland Team Defeats Alfred In Tennis Bout

With the first real break in the weather, Alfred's tennis crew journeyed to Cortland, Saturday, May 10, for a scheduled meet with the Phys Ed boys. When the smoke had cleared the battleground, the Saxons found themselves on the losing end of an 8-1 score. Alfred's lone victor in the singles matches was Charlie Elstein, who took his opponent 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

Cortland went on to take all of the three doubles matches, but not without a hard fight from the Saxon boys. Captain Mike Humenik was much impressed, as was the entire team, by the sportsmanship of the Cortland team and officials.

The Saxon singles players were Humenik, Groden, Elstein, Costa, Beazell, and Purdy. In the doubles events, Humenik paired with Groden, Elstein with Costa, and Beazell with Purdy.

The next net meet is scheduled for Wednesday, May 14, when the University of Buffalo plays host to the Alfred squad, who has been waiting for this game since the start of the season.

Student Vets Plan Campus Legion Post

Selection of John C. Eggleston Post as their post name was made Tuesday evening by student veterans, who met at Firemens Hall to organize a campus American Legion Post. This is the second honor the campus has given to Lieut. Eggleston, one of the pre-fabs in front of Bartlett also bearing his name.

Francis V. Snyder '49 and Malcolm Olsen '48 were named temporary chairman and adjutant of the meeting. Officers will be nominated Tuesday, May 20. John Ledin was named chairman of the nominating committee and Henry Cottrell '49, was named chairman of a committee to assist in the organization of an Auxiliary for the post. Twenty veterans were present and signed the charter application.

Attending the meeting from the Alfred-Almond post were Commander Victor Stearns, DeForest W. Truman, Harold Reid and Jack Moore. Others present included Allegany County Legion officers from Belmont.

Lieut. Eggleston, who died in action in November, 1942, in North Africa, matriculated at Alfred in 1938 starring in football during his freshman, sophomore and junior years. He was called into service in 1941 before being graduated and won his second Lieutenant's bars in Armored Force OCS at Ft. Kox, Ky. He went into North Africa as a tank commander.

Sport Side

By Friar Tuck

A week of intercollegiate and inter-mural events went by the boards when Old Man Weather refused to cooperate with Alfred's Athletic Department. The inter-mural softball schedule received the most telling blow, since a full Round Robin has been thwarted and final exams are almost on top of us. Nevertheless, should there be a steady break in the weather, softball games will be scheduled as long as time allows.

The Varsity Track squad was forced into inaction, when the Cortland meet was postponed last weekend. However, the spiked-shoe men continue to keep in shape under the shelter of the Men's Gym, getting ready for the Middle Atlantic this weekend.

Despite lack of outdoor facilities, Alfred's track men are equaling the best efforts of leading Western New York teams, and in some cases exceeding them. Time results of other college meets, posted on the Men's Gym bulletin board bear this out. The uphill efforts of the athletes and coaching staff have kept us in there pitching in college track circles. Nice going, coaches and fellows!

Naturally, you know what stopped the golf squad this past week—slight precipitation with intermittent blizzards. At the last moment, the link meets with Cortland and Ithaca were cancelled. Yep, that's the reason.

We who have followed this column since its introduction, owe a word of thanks to its originator, Art Hazlett. Art has been doing a marvelous job as the Fiat's Sports Editor, in addition to working with the Track team as its Manager.

With the advent of a beautiful 'Day', the tennis squad took off for Cortland Saturday morning for a scheduled meet with the Phys Ed boys. We have some pretty good net men on the squad and tennis is striving to win.

You couldn't tell it by looking at me, but I think badminton is a wonderful way to keep in shape, in addition to being a lot of fun. It looked easy at first, but after a few birds had been driven down my throat by a crack player, I changed my mind. You don't have to play too long before you realize that the fellows who are good have a distinctive wrist movement in handling the racquet and that improves your game immeasurably. There's a lot of interest in the game among students on campus, and the organizing of a badminton club has accelerated enthusiasm for the sport. Baseball fans, especially Cardinal

Badminton Fans Win 4 Of 15 Matches In Bath Tournament

Alfred's Badminton Club won four out of fifteen matches at the recent tournament with Bath which was played in Davis Gym on May 7.

The winning combinations were Alex Yunevich and Jeanne Barlow, and Jack Mazarelli and Lois Creighton.

The whole team consisted of Jeanne Barlow, Fred Clark, Patricia Crofoot, Lois Creighton, Jean Feucht, John Freund, Kenneth Goldstein, Richard Graham, Ann Heylmun, Jack Mazarelli, Daniel Minnick, Clayton Ormsby, and Alex Yunevich. Some of the regulars were unable to play because of vaccinations.

The players from Bath arrived at the Gym shortly after 8 p.m. and the last game was still going strong at 12:10 a.m. Most matches required all three games to decide the winners.

David W. Flammer Passes Physical For Marines

David W. Flammer, Jr., '50, passed his physical for the Marine Corps Reserve platoon leaders program, Thursday, when Major J. S. Skoczylas was here.

Under the program, Flammer will spend two six-week periods of training at the Marine Corps base in Quantico, Va., and upon graduation receive a second lieutenant's commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

rooters, are crying in their beards over the poor showing of the Red Birds. To date, they are in last place and going nowhere very fast. The situation is putting the champs in an embarrassing position, to say nothing of their backers. Coming out of a long slump, Stan Musial, Cardinal big stick, poled two hits the other day in Boston, one a homer. However, his teammates were in Beantown's Forbes Field just for the exercise and the few fans at the game yawned through the contest.

With a break in the weather, we'll try to fry up some real news for you next week.

The volleyball tournament is almost to completion with one game, Juniors vs. Freshmen to be played. The Juniors were victors over the Seniors 4-13 last Monday night and the Sophomores defaulted to the Freshmen because of lack of players. So, as the tournament stands, the Juniors and Freshmen are tied for first place and the cup. This game was played last night.

Archers might be wise in bringing boots or rubbers when they come to the field to shoot. Don't forget to get in some EARLY practice for that Columbia Round!

The tennis tournaments will be or probably have been posted by this time at the Union and at South Hall. Winners will be the best 2 out of 3 sets in each tournament. Post final scores on the South Hall bulletin board. Contact your opponent immediately because the tournament must be finished before May 27th.

I'll start building you up now for one of the biggest annual events in the Women's Athletic Department. At 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 27, all women's sports will be culminated in a Coffee Hour sponsored by W.A.G.B. At this time, nearly everyone who has participated in sports this year will be awarded either an old English A for a total of 65 points earned or shingles for smaller totals. Team trophies and cups will be presented to houses and other groups for victories in basketball, softball, volleyball and hockey. The most important and hardest worked for award, Alfred University blazers, will be given to the five girls who have been the most outstanding in sports throughout the college year. In being outstanding, a girl must possess good leadership, cooperation, sportsmanship and all-around participation. If, for some reason, you aren't interested in the awards, we are serving free punch and cookies.

The birdies and rackets are once more put away and Alfred's badminton players are likewise relaxing now that the official Spring tournament has been completed. All that remains is the last big fight for the highest honors between the Spring winners and those of last fall. With that, the bad-

Three Months Left To Renew Policies

Alfred veterans were reminded today that less than three months remain in which they may reinstate lapsed National Service Life Insurance policies without a physical examination.

Mr. Edwin G. Sayers, in charge of the Veterans Administration Contact Office in Hornell, said August 1, 1947, is the last day for ex-GIs to reinstate their service term insurance by paying only two monthly insurance premiums and certifying that their health is as good as it was on the date of lapse.

Veterans may reinstate their policies at the VA Contact Office in Hornell, or seeing the Contact Representative in the Ag-Tech Library every Tuesday.

Mr. Sayers said the Veterans Administration has not yet announced what requirements for reinstatement will prevail after the August 1 deadline but they are certain to be less liberal than those now in effect.

"One major reason for veterans to reinstate NSLI now," said Mr. Sayers, "is to eliminate the risk of becoming disqualified as policy holders through inability to pass a physical examination."

minton year will have been completed after what appears to have been a fairly successful season.

The turnout was larger than usual and competition was high in women's singles and doubles. There were several good matches in mixed doubles as well. Lucille Losch, one of the newer badminton enthusiasts, stepped in to take the women's singles with what appeared to be little difficulty. Patty Crofoot and Bob Turnbull came out highest in mixed doubles.

If all goes well, the frosh-soph softball game should prove an interesting one. Saturday afternoon the Class of '50 was out in full force practicing against two sophomores and Lambda Chi. The traditional game will be at 4:30 at the Practice Field, Wednesday, May 14. The '49'ers had best get on the ball; they have a hard team to beat. Managers will be consulted when the individual teams are to play.

CIO Worker Talks On Labor Problems

The Discussion Group presented Mr. Michael Clune, Sunday afternoon, May 11, in Social Hall. Mr. Clune, a field representative of the CIO from Buffalo, was introduced by President Walters.

The speaker first told of his own early experiences in the New York City Transport Union, and of the beginnings of the CIO in the AF of L. Many practices of the unions were explained, among them the ability to remove an officer by a petition signed by 25% of the membership, and the frequent elections and conferences that are held. Mr. Clune briefly discussed the present labor bills before Congress, and said that they would take away many of labor's rights gained through previous legislation. During the question period that followed, topics concerning reasonable profits, norms of productivity, closed and union shops were discussed.

This was the concluding meeting of the Current Affairs Discussion Group for the school year.

Vets Must Register For Work For Subsistence

All veterans who are using G. I. benefits must register for summer school work in advance to avoid an interruption of subsistence, according to Dean M. E. Drake. Thursday and Friday, May 15-16, has been set aside for the registration of veterans. It will be assumed by the Veterans Administration that those who do not register on those dates do not intend to take summer school courses and subsistence will be terminated on June 16. Registration will take place in the Registrar's office from 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1:30 to 5 p. m. on both registration days.

Alfred Veterans Apply For Dental Treatment

Over 400 veterans in the Hornell area have applied for out-patient dental treatment and over 25 percent of this number are Alfred students, according to Edwin G. Sayers, U. S. Veteran Administration representative.

Although the processing of claims for such treatment did take considerable time, Mr. Sayers states that follow-up treatment is now being authorized fairly rapidly.

He added that veterans who have not filed for out-patient dental treatment are invited to do so. Veterans who have been out of the service for less than a year are particularly urged to submit applications, as their cases are given special and speedier consideration.

Plans Made For Junior College At Jamestown

Dr. A. E. Whitford, Liberal Arts College Dean Emeritus, announces that action is going ahead on the idea of making the Alfred University Extension at Jamestown a junior college to be named the Jamestown Junior College.

This Extension was established to provide two years of liberal arts education at low cost to young people of Jamestown and vicinity. Classes meet in the Jamestown High School building where the Extension has use of several third floor rooms.

The Extension fills a long felt need of the Jamestown citizens. Organized first in 1934 as one of a number of federally financed emergency collegiate centers, the institution is now in its 14th year. When federal funds were withdrawn in 1937, the school was reorganized in its present form under the joint auspices of Alfred University, the Citizens Committee, and the Jamestown Board of Education. The Extension is now a branch of Alfred's Liberal Arts College and credit earned at Jamestown counts the same as that earned on the Alfred campus. The school has grown steadily and administrative changes have been made to put the school on a more permanent basis. This year there is a faculty of six full-time teachers and eight part-time instructors. There are 190 students now and approximately 50% of these are residents of Jamestown. After completing the course at the Extension most graduates come to Alfred to finish their study. Nevertheless, students have been accepted at 46 other institutions as well, including such universities as Cornell and Illinois.

It is hoped that through state aid, a building may be secured for the Extension so that it will become a Junior College.

Canning Firm Offers Jobs This Summer

Dean Brinton H. Stone has announced that Mr. Walter Biak has visited him to try to get college students to work during the summer for Curtis Brothers Company, Rochester, a canning firm.

Work is available at two camps: Mt. Morris, about 55 miles north of Alfred, and Bergen, 20 miles west of Rochester. Employment starts about June 20 to July 20 for pea crop canning. August 20 to September is the peak, which might extend on to October. It will not be made a condition of employment to stay beyond the opening of colleges. The pay rate is $.75 an hour, and hours of work are from 10 to 14 hours a day during rush, with an average of at least 10 hours a day. Employees may have to work 6 or 7 days a week to can perishable foods. If it is a normal year, salaries should average $50 a week.

Cook and janitor are furnished, and gas, electricity and heat are paid by the company. Only food is charged for, and the rate will depend upon the cost of food each summer. Wash boards and irons will be available to those who wish to use them.

Anyone who is interested may secure more information on these summer positions at Dean Stone's office.

Vacationing Vets Unable To Receive Allowance Benefits

Veterans vacationing from schools and colleges are not eligible for Readjustment Allowance benefits unless they are "ready, willing and able to work and unable to find jobs," Edwin G. Sayers, in charge of the Hornell Veterans Administration office said yesterday.

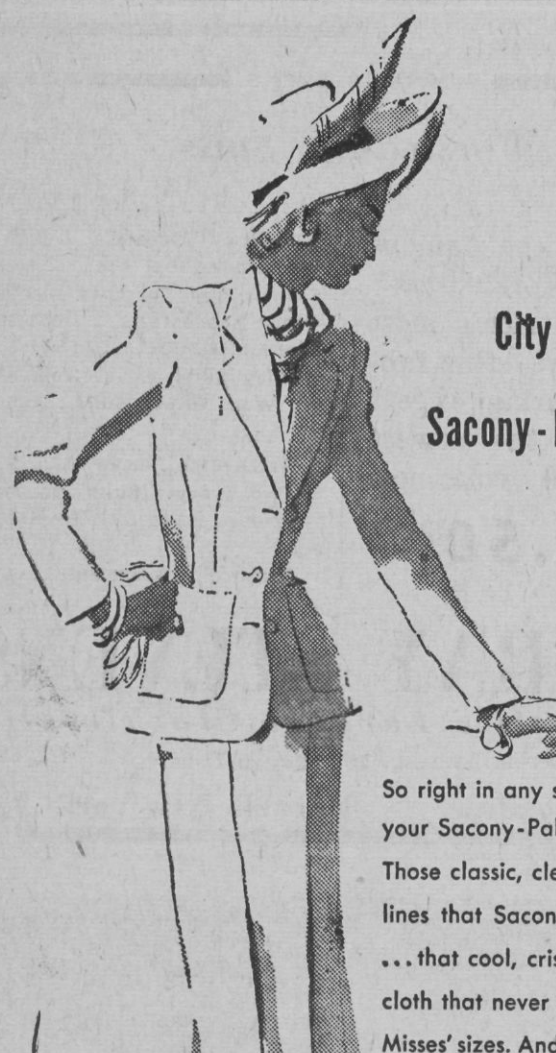

The State Division of Unemployment Insurance is exchanging information with VA Regional Offices regarding the status of veteran-students. The State agency is also taking special precautions to make certain that veterans applying for Readjustment Allowances during the summer months are actually seeking work as required by the law.
