

New professor joins English Department

8/14/08

Robert J. Reginio has joined Alfred University's College of Liberal Arts & Sciences as an assistant professor of English for the 2008-09 academic year. Reginio completed bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees in English, and a Ph.D. at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He received the International Federation of Theater Research: New Scholar's Prize in April 2006; was a Finalist for the University-Wide Distinguished Teaching Award; and the Outstanding Teaching Award from the Department of Continuing Education at the University of Massachusetts. He has taught courses in the Department of English at Frostburg (MD) State University, and literature courses in the Department of English at the University of Massachusetts. Reginio also has teaching experience at the University of Hartford, West Hartford, CT, where he taught rhetoric and composition courses. Reginio's research interests include transatlantic modernism; critical theory; modern drama; The Theatres of Beckett and Brecht; memory and trauma studies; Woolf, Joyce, Faulkner and the modern novel; and Wallace Stevens and modernist avant-gardes. He is a professional member of the American Comparative Literature Association, the International Federation of Theatre Research, the Modern Language Association, and the Samuel Beckett Society.