Film: 'A Chemical Reaction - The Story of a True Green Revolution'

Documentary Tuesdays with SAFE (Students Acting for Equality)

"A Chemical Reaction: The Story of a True Green Revolution" Directed by Brett Plymale

"A Chemical Reaction," is a 70-minute feature documentary movie that tells the story of one of the most powerful and effective community initiatives in the history of North America.

It started with one lone voice in 1984. Dr. June Irwin, a dermatologist, noticed a connection between her patients' health conditions and their exposure to chemical pesticides and herbicides. With relentless persistence she brought her concerns to town meetings to warn her fellow citizens that the chemicals they were putting on their lawns posed severe health risks and had unknown side effects on the environment.

'Perceiving Place' exhibition at the Fosdick-Nelson Gallery

"Perceiving Place," a painting exhibition featuring the work of Mike Glier, Josephine Halvorson, Nina Rizzo and Corinne Ulmann, opens this Friday at the Fosdick-Nelson Gallery with a reception from 7-9 p.m. All are welcome and encouraged to attend.

"Perceiving Place" will be on display through Dec. 1, 2010. Don't miss this exquisite exhibition.

Curatorial statement by Stephanie McMahon, Assistant Professor of Painting in the School of Art and Design.

"Our perception of the world around us is constructed by our senses, previous experiences and ability to compose this reality in our mind's eye. The activity of painting is an intimate relationship between seeing, touching and thinking. Paintings reveal the artist's understanding of the physical and mental constructs of our environment. They are a place where material and knowledge meet to explore the possibilities of image-making. 'Perceiving Place' brings together four painters investigating both actual and fictitious locations. The works reveal the artist's interactions and experiences with specific sites, examine ephemeral occurrences, question our preconceived notions of place and present fresh perspectives on everyday observations. The work is a celebration of the materiality of paint as a sensual and provocative medium for visualizing and internalizing interactions within our environment."
