

Alfred University to host discussion advising students on pricing artwork

4/10/18

ALFRED, NY Alfred University will host a discussion aimed at providing students with advice on how to price their artwork. "Pricing Your Artwork: A Cohen Conversation" will be held Thursday, April 12, at 4:30 p.m. at the Cohen Gallery on Main Street in Alfred.

Students are invited to attend the discussion with School of Art and Design faculty Kat Riesing, assistant professor of foundations; Angus Powers, associate professor of glass; and Luke Voytas, technician.

The free event will help students identify their "price sweet spot" to ensure they are being appropriately compensated for their work. Light refreshments will be provided.
