Green Zone Training

Green Zone training has taken place at universities around the nation in order to better educate individuals on the military affiliated student population. Within the military culture, Green Zone has been used to designate a safe space. This training is aimed at training staff and faculty to identify themselves as someone who knows something about the issues and concerns faced by military-affiliated students and is available to support and assist them through college. These individuals are not expected to be experts who can "solve" the problems, but rather individuals who are an empathetic ear and someone who can help the student find the appropriate resources and support.

This training will be offered at 3 different times and should range between 2-2.5 hours. Departments are encouraged to set up a separate time frame for their staff if desired outside of the offered times.

Participation and discussion is highly recommended in order to further the educational experience and bring one's awareness to a new level. Upon completing the training, one will receive a "Green Zone" sticker signifying their completion of the training.

Please use the AU Connect link to RSVP for 1 of the 3 available times.

Thursday 10 (9:30am-12:00pm)

Friday 11 (2:00pm-4:30pm)

Thursday 17 (4:00pm-6:30pm)

Please feel free to reach out to Dillon Smith (smithdr@alfred.edu) for any questions.

Silent Film Lecture-Concert Featuring Dennis James

Internationally renowned theatre organist and silent film accompanist, Dennis James will appear in a lecture-concert performance of the silent film "My True Heart Susie" starring Lillian Gish. My TRUE HEART SUSIE music score is compiled from Classic Ragtime compositions by Joe Lamb mixed together with Ragtime Era popular, salon and generic silent film pieces typically utilized by the Nickelodeon musicians of the day to create their carefully synchronized film accompaniments. Pianist & composer Joseph F. Lamb was an internationally revered Classic Ragtime specialist who is today regularly listed, together with his friend Scott Joplin, as one of the three leading composers in this vastly popular historical-period music genre. For six years in the late 1970's through mid-1980's, Dennis James served as Miss Lillian Gish's personal tour musical accompanist for her nationwide in-person screening events. To quote Dennis James: "In drawing attention towards the Gish silent films on the nationwide basis, prior to the Covid Pandemic onset I presented this particularly affecting rural melodrama at the Cleveland Museum of Art's Cinematheque utilizing the digital preservation of the original film print of the TRUE HEART SUSIE restored by the British Film Institute and the Library of Congress. More than one viewer thought that the portrayal of Susie in the film just might be Gish's finest performance, since perhaps no other actress at that time could have created the portrait of sweet, feminine purity so sincerely as Gish. Her 'Susie' appeals to our deepest sympathies. While you smile at her quaint mannerisms at first, they quickly win you over so that throughout the course of the film you admire her patience and self-sacrifice plus there is a breath of fresh air in the scenes where she shows forgiveness toward her rival. While Lillian Gish is often remembered today solely as a dramatic actress while her sister Dorothy is noted for her comedy skills, this film also shows Lillian certainly had a fine comedic timing of her own."
