Sarah Blood

ALFRED, NY – Sarah Blood, professor of glass in the Alfred University School of Art and Design, is curating and participating in an exhibition that opens later this month in Norway.

The exhibition, titled “Lightkeepers.” opens Nov. 30 at the S12 Gallery in Bergen, Norway. According to Blood, the group show features work by American and European artists who “use light in interesting ways.” Blood’s work, Between Further and Farther, will be included in the exhibition.

The “Lightkeepers” exhibition coincides with the 2019 Bergen Light Festival, a traditional celebration of the opening of the Christmas season.
